WIFE TO PLEAD FOR BECKER

GERMANS HURL NEW ARMY AT WARSAW

PETROGRAD, July 29.—Military critics of Petrograd expect the events of the next forty-eight hours to decide the fate of Warsaw.

They declare that the battle now raging south of the Narew River is the decisive conflict which will determine whether the Russians will have to withdraw their main forces from the Polish capital, or whether the Germans shall retreat to their former positions on the north bank of the river.

The Germans have redoubled their tremendous attacks in this district. It is reported that they have been reinforced by three fresh corps from the western front.

Night and day they assail the Russian lines, while their artillery shells the positions in which the Russian reserves are held.

The efforts of Field Marshal von Hindenburg to reach the railway lines northeast of Warsaw have completely failed thus far. These lines, rather than Warsaw itself, are his goal. Their capture would result in the fall of the capital.

The fighting along the upper Bug River, where combined efforts of the Austrians and German forces have been made for a week to rout the Russians, now seems to be developing to the advantage of the Czar's troops. They are on the offensive and have already recaptured three of the important positions which they lost last Saturday.

In the Baltic region the German advance is continuing slowly. The Russians are falling back to their prepared positions.

GERMANS REPORT CAPTURE OF 2,910 RUSSIAN SOLDIERS

BERLIN, July 29.—The capture of 2,910 Russians and two machine guns on the Suwalki-Olita road in Northern Poland is announced today in an official report from the General Staff.

A number of positions on both sides of the Suwalki-Olita road were taken from the Russians by the Germans.

Olita is upon the Niemen River, about sixty miles east of Suwalki.

Repeated attacks by the Russians around Rudelek, south of the Narew River, failed with heavy losses.

West of Novo Georgievsk the Germans took by surprise and captured 128 Russians on the south bank of the Vistula.

PENNY TO MAKE WEIGHTY APPEAL IN VOTE CANVASS

Lynn Candidate for House Who Starts in as the State's Champion Fat Man

These two pictures show the 420 pounds of argumentative force and its equally persuasive 420 pounds of good nature with which Mr. Penny proposes to wage his campaign for the House.

Circumferentially speaking, Herbert Caesar Penny, 420-pounder, the world's biggest Bull Mooser and suffragist, and candidate for the House of Representatives from Lynn, announced at noon today that he's going to win in a walk.

The State's champion heavyweight office-seeker says he's going to cover his district wholly by foot.

He says he's going to make his 42-centimetre weight count in his fight to be counted a Solon.

He says he is "running by walking," that he would win the race by really RUNNING did he not think it better for him to proceed cautiously by "winning in a walkover—a walk over his district." He's equi-distant in circumference and height. That is, he's as big around as he is high.

He stands six feet two in his stocking feet.

He tapes 74 inches around his waist.

He says his candidacy is a mighty weighty matter.

MANY SERIOUS PROBLEMS.

Penny has already started his walking tour in the Fourteenth Essex District, which includes Nahant and Wards 2 and 4 of Lynn. He is now getting signatures for his nomination papers, and should he win, his appearance on Beacon Hill next Winter will confront Sergeant-at-Arms Thomas F. Pedrick with a serious problem.

Should he win, Pedrick will have to do these things:

Have a special made-to-order seat in the House for the Lynn man.

Have carpenters erect a specially generous desk.

Have to put other lawmakers in cramped space, as the House's seating capacity is pretty well taken up at it is.

Possibly have to widen the doors and corridors.

Strengthen the foundations of the State House.

Have the aisles widened.

Enlarge the commissary department in the State House lunch room.

Today Penny came into Boston to visit a daughter in Dorchester. He attracted a good deal of attention. He wore a silk hat, white vest capacious enough to furnish a full Summer suit for an ordinary man, heavy walking cane which Penny terms his "big stick," heavy watch chain which he says is of pure gold and weighs three pounds, triple-bediamonded ring and oyster-shell stickpin set with a diamond almost as big as a locomotive headlight.

LARGE IN GOOD NATURE.

As Penny was boarding a Dorchester car a reporter rushed up.

"I want to interview you," said the newspaper man, just as Penny was expending about 1,500 foot-pounds of energy in mounting to a seat.

"Certainly, I'll get off and talk with you," said the jovial fat man candidate. This aroused the ire of the conductor, who shouted:

"Hey, what are you trying to do there—rob me of a passenger?"

To which the reporter retorted:

"You ought to be glad, for if he gets on he'll take up the space of five passengers and you'll lose money."

And the conductor rang ding-ding as the signal to the motorman to move on.

Penny is one of the fattest men in various Fat Men's clubs. He has a megaphonic voice, a wealth of good humor and a hearty smile. His political platform is:

"Woman suffrage, prohibition and a job for everyone who will work."

Carnegie Denies Self to Visitors

BAR HARBOR, July 29.—As a result of rumors that Andrew Carnegie was ill, inquiry was made at his home, with the reply that he was as well as usual, much the same as he had been since coming to Bar Harbor. At present he is not receiving visitors, nor have they been allowed to see him since he came here. The servants pointed out that he has been out in his yacht several times during the last few days.

Former Senator John Read Dead

Former State Senator John Read died today at his home, No. 58 Appleton street, Cambridge, after a long illness. He was seventy-five years old. He graduated from Harvard in '63, served in the navy during the Civil War, was on the Kearsarge when she sank, and participated in the blockade of Southern ports, taking part in a dozen sea battles. He is survived by three sons, J. B. William, '78, and H. W. Read, all of Cambridge.

Kaiserin and Princess Visit Eastern Front

By International News Service.

BERLIN, July 29.—(By wireless) Empress Augusta Victoria and Crown Princess Cecile, who have gone to the Eastern theatre to participate in the triumphal entry of the German troops into Warsaw, are visiting all points of interest on their journey. They inspected the hospital at Neidenburg and also motored to several villages that had been destroyed in that region by the Russians.

The two women wept as the peasants surrounded their car and told graphic stories of the Russian raid early in the war. Both gave freely to the war victims whose homes had been destroyed.

At Allenstein, the Empress and Crown Princess met Field Marshal von Hindenburg. The Kaiserin congratulated the warrior upon the magnificent work done by his army. He replied:

"It is too little, Your Majesty. We shall do more."

BLACKHAND LETTERS TO GIRL

The Black Hand letter writer who drove eighteen-year-old Loretta Thayer out of Brockton last year with a series of letters threatening her life unless she gave up her sweetheart has renewed his threats by sending similar letters to her new home in Abington. A disappointed suitor is again suspected. An arrest may be made.

Adding to the family distress was a mysterious fire which did $500 damage to the Thayer home Monday night. Mrs. Frank L. Thayer, Loretta's mother, said in Brockton today:

"We think the fire was set. It may have been set by the black-hand writer."

Loretta is so frightened she is keeping to the house, but her mother says the girl will never give up her sweetheart for any Black Hand threats. She has been keeping company with an Abington young man eighteen months.

The extraordinary persecution of Miss Thayer was thought to have ended when the family moved from Brockton to Abington last year, but two more letters have come to the Abington home by mail in the past week. Yesterday a third letter was found inside the pantry window screen. The seeming evidence that the letter-writer had actually been on the premises has increased the family fears.

Miss Thayer is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Thayer. The father is employed in a Brockton market. The mother is employed now in a Brockton millinery store.

650 MEN IN HYDE PARK WALKOUT

Every man in the plant of the Becker Milling Machine Company, Hyde Park, of which former Governor Foss is president, laid down his tools and walked out at noon today. Union officials claim the entire day shift of 650 men is on strike. There are approximately 300 more men working nights, and the union claims these men will join the strike tonight.

Immediately following the Becker walkout, a big noontime meeting of the employes of the B. F. Sturtevant Company was held. Union leaders addressed them, and a meeting was called for tonight at Magnolia Hall. There are about 2,500 employed. Former Governor Foss is president of this company also. Union officials assert the Sturtevant employes will also strike tonight unless their demands are granted.

As each man quit work at the Becker plant he took his tool chest and belongings with him and joined his fellow-workers outside the plant. Then in a body the strikers marched to Magnolia Hall, where a big demonstration was held.

Three patrolmen and a sergeant watched the walkout, but there was no disorder. Several hundred people gathered to watch the men go on strike and cheered when the men left the works.

FOLLOWED CONFERENCE.

The walkout followed a conference between a committee representing the employes and officials of the

5 More Vessels Victims of War on Merchantmen

LONDON, July 29.—The Finnish steamships Leop and Urania have been sunk in the Baltic Sea. The Urania, a passenger vessel, struck a mine. All her passengers were saved.

The Leo was sunk by a German submarine. Eleven men and several women were killed.

Twenty-six sailors are believed to have perished when the British steamer Mangora, 1,821 tons, was torpedoed by a German submarine in the North Sea, off Lowestoft, Wednesday.

The pilot, captain, chief engineer and two sailors were landed at Lowestoft today, and three other members of the crew were picked up and taken to Yarmouth. Others of the crew, twenty-six in all, are missing.

Grimsby reports that the trawler Dovey has been sunk by a submarine in the North Sea, and her crew of nine men has been lost.

Another neutral ship was added to he list of submarine victims today when a dispatch from Stavanger announced that the Norwegian steamer Nordlyt had been towed there after being found abandoned with a large hole in her port side, caused by an attack by a U boat. The hold was full of water and the vessel had lost its rigging.

President's Little Granddaughter Ill

CORNISH, N. H., July 29.—Little Ellen Wilson McAdoo, the four months old granddaughter of President Wilson, is ill at the home of her parents in North Haven, Me., but her condition is not serious. Dr. Gary T. Grayson, the President's physician, left at noon for Boston to confer with specialists who have been attending the baby. If Dr. Grayson is not satisfied with their reports, he will go to North Haven. The infant is said to be suffering from a complication of baby diseases.

LAST PLEA TODAY TO WHITMAN

ALBANY, N. Y., July 29.—Mrs. Charles Becker arrived here today to make a final appeal to Governor Whitman for her husband, who is now only a few hours from the electric chair.

The Governor is under guard against gunmen. Extreme precautions are being taken to prevent any unauthorized person from entering the executive chamber. This is due to a rumor that a gang of gunmen is in the city bent on harassing the Governor and forcing relief for Becker.

Mrs. Becker came up from New York city, accompanied by her husband's third lawyer, J. E. Johnstone. She was planning, it was understood, to base her final desperate plea for her husband on the ground of fairness.

SEEKS RESPITE.

"I shall be satisfied if the Governor will only grant a stay of execution until the opening of the Court of Appeals next October," the loyal wife was quoted as saying.

As soon as Mrs. Becker and Johnstone arrived here they went to the Hampton Hotel. Immediately the lawyer telephoned the State House to arrange a meeting if possible. The

Suburban Land Will Increase in Value

During the next few years. If you will study the growth of the large cities of the country, one fact will stand out big.

As the size of the city grows, the inhabitants move farther out, which means that suburban property comes more into demand.

Boston is growing fast. As it grows the property in the outlying parts of the city is becoming more valuable. You are in a position to make money through this growth.

There are many worth-while developments advertised in the "Real Estate" columns of the Boston American. A few years hence this land will be worth much more than it is today. If you buy now, dollars will grow where you sow your cents now.

Look over the field carefully. Trace the path of progress, and see which locality is growing more popular. After reaching a conclusion, consult the "Real Estate" ads and make your selection. You can't go wrong, if you Governor was not in the executive chamber.

Mrs. Becker, pale and haggard, sat in the parlor of the Hampton. When she was told that the Governor was out, she urged that effort be made to locate him on the telephone.

"If I can have only a word with him!" she is reported to have said.

TRY TO REACH WHITMAN.

The executive office staff, anxious to relieve a woman's misery if possible, sent back word that they would try to get the Governor on the telephone.

It had been planned earlier for Mrs. Becker to see the Governor at 6 o'clock. But that meant a wait of several hours in Albany, while she yearned to be with her husband in the death house.

Practically no hope has been held out to Mrs. Becker that the Governor would yield to her prayer.

The measures taken to protect the Governor came promptly. The brass gates which separate the executive suite and the anteroom were closed. Detective Bain, the executive chamber guardian for the past month, took a seat near the brass gate. Nobody was allowed by the gate.

A heavy oak door which gives access to the executive chamber proper was closed.

BECKER ENRAGED AT REFERENCES TO FIRST WIFE'S DEATH

NEW YORK, July 29.—With the shadow of death upon him, Charles Becker, who will be electrocuted tomorrow morning for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, gave way to a paroxysm of rage today when he read in the newspapers references to the death of his first wife, which cast a reflection upon him.

Becker had been at prayer. The Rev. Father William Cashin, the chaplain at Sing Sing, was in the condemned man's cell in the death house when the newspapers were brought to his cell.

When Becker's eye fell upon the paragraph from Albany that the death of his first wife had been attended by mysterious circumstances, the peaceful serenity went out of his face. With curses upon his lips Becker raved and stamped in his cell. The efforts of the priest to quiet him were in vain.

Shaking off the priest's soothing hand, Becker cried:

"Governor Whitman was responsible for that. I am on the threshold of my grave, but he is still trying to blacken me in the minds of the people.

Becker resigned himself to death when he heard that Justice Ford in New York had denied him another trial. His iron nerve buoyed him up and his religious fervor gave him added strength.

Resigned to his fate, Becker spent the greater part of the morning in prayer. Over and over again he knelt and repeated the Act of Contrition, the prayer for departing souls, and the litanies. Sometimes he prayed with Father Cashin, who rejoiced at the sincerity of the penitent.

But the priest's rejoicing was turned to sorrow by Becker's outbreak and it was a long while before the scowl left the prisoner's face and he could control his voice.

"The story which avenged Becker so stated that the doomed man's first wife died in a bath tub under suspicious circumstances and that he had neglected to provide for the support of his child by his second wife, who divorced him on statutory grounds and married his brother.

RAVES OF CRUELTY.

"The story which would go to your Maker with bitterness and rage in your heart," said Father Cashin.

Becker, unable to control himself, thrust the newspaper into the priest's hand.

"Look at that," he fairly shrieked. "Look at that lie. They are trying to damn me and blacken me when I am on the very threshold of my grave. Could anything be more cruel?"

Father Cashin, whose wonderful influence over Becker had transformed the doomed man from a sweating, blaspheming, profane fighter into a meek Christian, set to curbing the anger of the prisoner.

"It is the last thing I do on earth I want to deny that dying statement," declared Becker. "I was in no way concerned with the death of my first wife and I did support my child."

As the hour of Becker's execution approaches some interesting revelations are being made. From one source comes the information that Becker had three times offered to plead guilty of murder in the second degree after his first conviction in order to escape the chair. The State refused the plan. Attorney Martin T. Manton denies this story.

OFFERED TO BETRAY MEN.

From another source it is learned that Becker recently offered to betray five prominent men of New York city in turn for executive clemency. Governor Whitman declined to bargain with the condemned man.

Preparations are under way for the execution and at 5:45 a.m. tomorrow Becker will pass through the "Little Green Door."

Becker's cell has been bared of all the books and papers which he was allowed during the long days of his confinement in order that life might be made bearable.

Early today he was taken out and given a bath and his head shaved. Then he was clothed in the shapeless baggy suit of black and the heelless black slippers which he will go to death. The death watch was put on him, but Becker, now calm, is to have nothing to do but sit and think and pray.

The news of Justice Ford's decision dazed Becker when imparted to him by the death house guards. It was the first time in months the doomed man seemed to realize his awful predicament. Deputy Warden Johnson told Becker.

"I've got bad news for you, Charlie," said Johnson. "They've denied your appeal."

Becker was standing up, one hand

WIFE'S GRIEF HIS CHIEF CONCERN

NEW YORK, July 29.—Through Father Cashin Charles Becker issued the following statement when informed that he had lost his appeal:

"I am satisfied that I will get no justice here and all I do get will be in the next world. Eventually the truth will come out and the world will know that Becker is telling the truth and that he is not the foul murderer he is accused of being.

"I don't fear death at all. If it were a matter of choice with me I would much prefer death than a life sentence. But I feel more the stigma that will be attached to my name and the distress and sorrow caused my loyal wife and brothers and sisters. My grief is upon my mind, and I only wish I could do something to relieve her."

Becker inquired eagerly from Father Cashin whether Mrs. Becker had been advised of Justice Ford's decision. When told she had not, he delegated the priest to telephone her at her home in New York.

"Do it as gently as possible, Father. It will break her heart and I am fearful of how she will take it.

DENOUNCES WHITMAN.

"Let us pray, Father," he said with a choked voice as he turned round and fell to his knees.

Other prisoners did likewise, and throughout the death house condemned men sank awkwardly to the floor and lifted their voices in prayer for the soul of Charles Becker.

Between fits of praying Becker denounced Whitman, saying that he had been hounded to the chair and that a day of judgment to atone for the innocent would come to those who allowed a mistaken sense of duty to overwhelm their higher ideals.

Father Curry and Father Cashin will walk on either side of Becker as he enters the death chamber. Two keepers will walk at the head of the little procession, followed by Becker and the two priests.

Two more keepers will follow after the condemned man, with Principal Keeper Fred Demer walking behind them. Besides the newspaper men and other witnesses, Assistant Warden Johnson, in the absence of Warden Osborne, will be in the room with Dr. Charles W. Farr, the prison physician, and his assistant, Dr. Henry Mercreux.

NEW APPARATUS.

New and more powerful electric apparatus has been installed. Just back of the chair and two or three steps to Becker's right, the State electrician will stand, ready to throw a switch on a part of the wall which projects out about a foot and a half directly behind the electric chair.

To the electrician's left is a long lever which rises from the floor against the wall to about the height of the waist-line of the electrician standing beside it. A slight wave of a lead pencil in the hand of the principal keeper will notify the electrician that all is ready.

The electrician then will then sound the bell signals out in the dynamo room—the bell is not heard in the death chamber—to notify the engineer to get ready.

One bell next is sounded, whereupon the electrical current is sent into the death house, although the current does not go to the chair itself until the State electrician sends it there by a movement of the long lever beside him.

A signal of two bells means 'increase the power," three bells are sounded when a steaming of the voltage is desired and six bells are sounded to notify the dynamo room that "all is over" and the current is to be shut off from the death house.

As the condemned man is put to death the clergymen, owing to their closeness to the electric chair, stand on rubber mats placed there for them.

NEGRO TO DIE FIRST.

If no further reprieve should come to Becker he will be preceded to the chair tomorrow morning by Samuel Havnes, a Putnam County negro, who is to be executed for the murder of a woman. John Lowrie, a lay preacher of this city, will accompany Haynes.

Precautions have already been taken to prevent the assemblage of crowd about the prison during Becker's execution. Guards will be posted at the entrance to the prison grounds, and only those bearing credentials will be permitted to pass.

The prison officials declare that the cell of a man about to go to the electric chair must be entirely cleared twenty-four hours before the time set for electrocution. Becker took up that task as soon as he had breakfast. Opposite his cot hangs a large photograph of his wife. This he left undisturbed.

On the small table in the rear of the cell he had a few books, including a Bible. He gave a volume of Theodore Roosevelt's "Through the Brazilian Wilderness" to Her Cashin and gave a souvenir edition de luxe volume of "The Panama Canal" to a keeper. Belongings, such as a fountain pen, pencils and pictures, he distributed among other occupants of the death house.

LAST FAREWELL TODAY.

From noon until 5 o'clock today, although the regular visiting hours run only from 2 until 4, Becker will be with his wife and his brothers and such others of his relatives as may come. At 5 o'clock Father Cashin and the Rev. James H. Curry of St. James' Church, New York, will join him and spend the evening, if not the night, in spiritual consolation and the administration of the last rites of the church.

Justice Ford, after he announced his decision, declared he did not believe there was any appeal. He is backed in this opinion by District Attorney Perkins and Assistant District Attorneys Taylor and Rotwitt.

The Justice declared the motion of the defense could not be granted under the common law, that he had no such inherent powers as Mr. Cockran ascribed to him, and that he was compelled to agree with Mr. Perkins and Mr. Taylor that he was held hard and fast to the statutes set forth in the code of criminal procedure.

"I am of the opinion," Justice Ford says in his decision, "that when subjected to the test of the statutes and the decisions, there is not enough competent evidence proffered to have changed the result had it been received upon the trial.

"NO EASY TASK."

"I am sorry to have to do this," declared the jurist, "but it is the court's duty. "It is not an easy thing to deny a man his life, and today I am celebrating the fifty-third anniversary of my birth. My wife and daughter are up in the Catskills. I heard from them only today. I assure you, gentlemen, this was no easy task.

"That any of Becker's should have been made to Governor Whitman. The power of the court are limited in criminal cases—so limited that when I came to look into the matter I saw that there was but one thing for me to do.

"I reached and my decision last night. There is a growing popular discontent with the tardiness of executive clemency. Some was committed three years ago. There is nothing to show that I had the inherent power that Mr. Cockran said I had.

"If new trials were granted on such grounds as this petition is based upon, we'd never get through. It is always possible to get affidavits. But the affidavits must comply with the statutes if they are to be regarded as new evidence. This is one of the reasons why the judges are compelled to take such narrow confines."

INSUFFICIENT, SAYS JUDGE.

Justice Ford's decision covered five full pages of legal cap paper and contained about 1,500 words. It goes into the details of the affidavits filed by the attorneys for Becker and declares that the evidence proffered "is for the most part cumulative and hence insufficient."

The decision refers at some length to the case of Lee Benham, which was urged by Mr. Cockran as grounds for granting a new trial. It declares that the resemblance between the Benham and Becker motions is that the defendants each had knowledge of the facts sought to be proved at the time of the trial and was not permitted by the lawyers to testify concerning them. In the Benham case there was new evidence aside from the affidavits upon which the court finds no such evidence in the Becker motion.

NOT ADMISSIBLE.

Howard C. Benham was convicted of the murder of his wife at Ratwin, N. Y., in 1897. At that he did not take the witness stand. The Court of Appeals affirmed his conviction and Supreme Court Justice Hooker later granted him a new trial. Justice Ford points out that Becker's case differed from that of Becker in that Benham wanted to take the stand, but his lawyers would not permit him.

Justice Ford asks this question: "Does the evidence set forth as newly discovered in the affidavits on behalf of the defendant meet the requirements of the statute and of the Court of Appeals?" He then interprets the affidavits as follows:

"As to the defendant's own affidavit, it is not contended that it sets forth newly discovered evidence, and must be disregarded.

650 EMPLOYES OF FOSS PLANT IN HYDE PARK GO ON STRIKE

company. The men have been restive since the discharge of twenty last week, and while the meeting was going on, over a hundred employes refused to walk out without waiting for the results of the conference.

The union workers claim that this is the first extension to Boston of the Bridgeport strike, which resulted in greatly increased wages to the men working on war material in that city. They further claim that this strike is one of the results of the enormous manufacture of war material for the allies in this country.

Immediately after the settlement of the Bridgeport strike, it was prophesied that Boston would be the scene of the next conflict, and strike leaders came to this city with the avowed intention of raising Boston war workers' wages to the level just obtained in Bridgeport.

The Becker Milling Company is controlled by former Governor Eugene N. Foss. It has been operating as an open shop. Of late it has been running in day and night shifts making war munitions, and about 1,200 are said to be employed there. Former Governor Foss is president of the company.

STARTED WEEK AGO.

The trouble started last week when twenty workmen were discharged. The men claim they were discharged because they joined the union. This is denied by Mr. Foss.

Today a committee representing the employes met officials of the company. The committee was composed of Joseph J. Tobin, C. M. Massie, William J. Walsh and J. F. Foley. All are employes. The company was represented by Mr Foss, John Becker, its general manager of the company, and George Taylor, superintendent of the plant.

The committee was accompanied by R. L. Hall, business agent of the Machinists' Union. He was refused admission at the door of the office where the conference was held. The reason he was refused admission because the company declines to meet in controversy anyone not an employe.

The meeting was in session about two hours, but when the men learned that admission had been refused to their business agent, about one hundred struck on the spot. As they passed out they were cheered from the windows of the plant by the men who remained at work.

At 11:30 the committee left the offices of the plant and told the men their demands had not been complied with. Immediately the word ran around the huge plant and within a minute or two practically every man in the plant, except those left for necessary work, like taking care of the boilers, had left the place.

FOSS STATEMENT.

Immediately after the walk-out, former Governor Foss issued a statement in which he said: "The company has agreed to give the men a fifty-hour week, to take all the men back on August 1 and to investigate each case individually. The company will pay for overtime at the rate of time and a half, but maintains that for efficiency an hourly rate or piece work system of pay must be maintained.

The men demand a 48-hour week, 50 cents an hour, recognition of the union and time and a half for overtime.

At present they claim the average rate of pay ranges from 23 to 32½ cents an hour. The union will make a statement later in the day.

CORONER'S JURY BLAMES 6 FOR EASTLAND

By International News Service.

CHICAGO, July 29.—In a verdict returned early today, after nine hours deliberation, the jury which, under the direction of Coroner Peter Hoffman was investigating the Eastland catastrophe of last Saturday, answers the question: Who is to blame?

The coroner's jury in its verdict names six men and recommends that they be held to await the action of the Cook County Grand Jury on a charge of manslaughter.

Immediately following the rendering of the verdict, State's Attorney Hoyne announced that six indictments would be voted by the Grand Jury today. He held the Grand Jury in session until late last night but the delay in the return of the coroner's jury caused him to allow the grand jurors to go home.

The men named in the verdict of the coroner's jury include two officials of the steamship company concerned in the Eastland horror, two officers of the death ship and two government steamship inspectors. They are:

William Hull, vice-president and general manager of the St. Joseph-Chicago Steamship Company, owners of the steamship Eastland. Hull, according to the evidence brought out before the coroner's jury, bought the Eastland for $150,000, knowing that she cost $325,000 to build, and knowing the boat has a record as a "spite boat."

Captain Harry Pederson, master of the Eastland. Pederson, according to the testimony, knew for seventeen minutes that his boat was not acting properly and he failed to warn the passengers that they might get ashore, though his crew knew the danger and escaped with one exception.

Joseph N. Ericson, chief engineer of the Eastland, who was given his office, according to the testimony, within a week after his brother-in-law, Inspector Robert Reid of the steamboat inspection service granted the owners of the Eastland permission to carry 250 additional passengers over her previous limit.

Walter K. Greenbaum, manager of the Indiana Transportation Company who chartered the Eastland to carry a large excursion, though he knew, according to his own testimony, the record that the boat bore.

EASTLAND DIVER LEAPING TO HIS GREWSOME TASK

Scouts Honor "Comrade 396" of Eastland

By International News Service.

CHICAGO, July 29.—"Comrade 396 will be buried with military honors." This message flashed today from troop to troop of the Chicago Boy Scouts. It referred to the little brown-haired boy of eight years who has lain since Saturday in a morgue, as unidentified victim of the Eastland catastrophe.

He is known only as "number 396," but his frail little body will be accorded a hero's funeral, although in life he was not a member of the Scouts. The work of raising the funds to pay the funeral expenses of "396" was started today. Boy Scouts in organized bands were also at work trying to identify the body of the boy.

CARRANZA SETS BACK PEACE FOR MEXICO

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Mexican peace plans today received another setback as a result of an official denial from General Carranza that he would send delegates to Torreon to treat with representatives of the Villa faction. General Carranza telegraphed the International News Service that the report that he would send envoys to such a conference was untrue.

Secretary of State Lansing today announced receipt of a dispatch from the Brazilian minister at Mexico City, which was sent out from there by courier Sunday. The dispatch states that famine again holds the capital in its grip and intimates that immediate representations would be made to General Carranza to compel the reopening of the railway so that food supplies may reach the capital.

The Zapatista hold the city at the time the dispatch was forwarded, though only a few of their troops were there. Most of the forces appeared to be on the battle line opposing Gonzales.

HARD FIGHTING AMONG VOSGES HEIGHTS

By FRANKLIN P. MERRICK, Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

PARIS, July 29.—Among the heights of the Vosges Mountains the French are meeting with enormous difficulties in their drive toward the Rhine strongholds of the Germans. That the fighting is of the most desperate character is shown by an official communique issued by the War Office today.

In one position taken from the Germans the French found 22 bodies and a great quantity of ammunition. At Barrenkopf the Germans left 400 dead upon the field.

During the fighting on the Lingekopf-Barrenkopf line on Tuesday and Wednesday the French took 201 prisoners. The text of the communique follows:

"In Artois there was the usual bombardment during the night. In the sector of Souches there were conflicts with grenades and petards.

"In the Argonne there was fighting with bombs and torpedoes. In the region of Bagatelle and at Courte Chaussee, near St. Hubert, as well as in the forest of Malancourt, we blew up numerous German posts.

"In the Vosges, at Hartenkopf, in the positions conquered by us on July 22 we found 200 German bodies, two rapid fire guns, 200 rifles and a great quantity of munitions and equipment. The German troops left on the ground at Barrenkopf numbered more than 400 dead. The number of German prisoners taken in the course of recent conflicts on July 27 and July 28 is 201."

England Suffers from Coal Famine

By International News Service.

LONDON, July 29.—England is suffering from a coal famine as a result of the entrance of mine workers into the army and the recent Welsh strike. In an effort to stimulate the output of coal during the war a mass meeting of 2,000 miners' delegates was held at the London Opera House today, when patriotic addresses were made by Minister of Munition David Lloyd George, President Walter Runciman of the Board of Trade and Home Secretary Sir John A. Simon. The Home Secretary declared that England is suffering from a shortage of 3,000,000 tons of fuel monthly.

San Martino conquistato. Gli Austriaci fuggono. Migliaia di prigionieri.

15 Monaci Assolti

Il tribunale militari a Bari ha assolto i cinque monaci che in giugno furono arrestati imputati di spionaggio. La Corte decise che l'accusa era infondata.

La folla che era nella sala applaudì vivamente il verdetto.

CIO' CHE SI DICE A VIENNA.

Telegramma da Vienna. —Un telegramma da Vienna che riporta il comunicato di quel comando militare, dice che gli Italiani sono stati respinti con gravissime perdite nel loro attacchi contro Gorizia; che il bombardamento di Fano e Sinigaglia produsse dei gravi danni e che ad Ancona molti edifici e baracche militari furono rovinati.

MILANO, 28 luglio.—In seguito al brillante successo sul pianoro Carso, gli Italiani, lunedì scorso, assalirono il monte San Martino riuscendo a conquistarlo. Le semmide del monte erano difese da numerose batterie che impedivano l'avanzata italiana. Gli austriaci a stento salvarono in parte le loro artiglierie.

Continuando la lotta sulla destra, sul pianoro di Doberdo, gli Italiani riuscirono a circondare un grosso contingente di truppe nemiche, facendo 2200 prigionieri e catturando molto materiale, vivieri e munizioni.

Il fuoco delle batterie italiane ha grandemente contribuito alla vittoria. Le trincee contro cui era stato diretto il fuoco furono trovate piene di morti, tutto il terreno seminato di cadaveri.

L'importanza Della Vittoria

La resistenza austriaca nella difesa dei monti I San Michele e San Martino e' stata terribile, feroce, perche' essi rappresentano la chiave del basso Isonzo e la chiave del centro austriaco.

Altri progressi sono stati fatti negli scorsi giorni gu tutta la linea del fronte.

LEELANAW TRIED TO ESCAPE SUBMARINE

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—That the American steamer Leelanaw attempted to escape before it was finally sunk by the German submarine last Sunday near the Orkney Islands, and that she hove to immediately upon being fired at, was the sworn statement of her captain, today reported to the State Department by Consul Dennison at Dundee, Scotland. The captain declared that he was refused possession of the ship's papers, which were held by the commander of the submarine.

The dispatch, which was dated yesterday, reads:

"Leelanaw's crew here all safe. Sail Saturday on St. Paul. Master under oath states he sighted German submarine July 25 sixty miles northwest of Orkneys. Endeavored to escape. Fired on at a distance of two miles, shot falling short, hove to and stopped.

"Submarine signalled for ship's papers, which were sent. After examining them submarine signalled 'abandon ship.'

"Ample time given crew to leave ship.

"Five shots then fired at Leelanaw without effect, followed by torpedo. Crew then taken on submarine with lifeboats in tow, after which two more shots were fired, last one setting fire to ship.

"Submarine headed toward Orkneys. Leelanaw was seen to sink one hour twenty minutes later.

"At 8:20, another steamer being seen approaching, crew ordered to boats, in which they proceeded the remainder of the distance to Kirkwell, arriving at 6:30 on the following morning.

"Leelanaw was laden with flax and tow only. Before leaving submarine, master demanded ship's papers. Request was refused, his register, customs manifest and bills of lading being retained. Master has no complaint of treatment on submarine."

Secretary of State Lansing said today, while no inquiry in the Leelanaw case had yet been directed to the German government, he assumed that the department in due time would make such inquiries.

When asked whether the reported attempt of the vessel to escape had any effect on her fate, the Secretary answered that it had not.

Canadian Prisoners Need Clothes Badly

By International News Service.

LONDON, July 29.—Four hundred and fifty Canadian prisoners of war in the German detention camp at Giessen are badly in need of clothing, says a report on prison camp conditions in Germany issued by the government press bureau today. Among the prisoners are Lieutenant Bath and forty-eight members of the Canadian Highlanders.

British Flag Used to Trap Steamer

German submarines are luring British vessels to destruction by flying the British flag, according to statements of Pavlos Kodia, a Russian survivor of the British freighter Northlands, torpedoed off Beachy Head. He arrived here on board the Greek steamship Thorros.

Cousin of Late Pope Pius X Asks Aid of the U. S.

BALTIMORE, July 29.—Ex-State Senator J. J. Lindsay is in receipt of a letter from the Right Rev. Don Luigi Sturzo, cousin of the late Pope Pius X., for 18 years pastor of St. Stephen's Church here and who since January, 1904, had been living in Origno, Austria, on the frontier of northern Italy, where he recently erected a magnificent orphan asylum and built a beautiful villa for himself.

Father Sartori writes that Origno is occupied by the Italian army. He was compelled to vacate and secure shelter in the sanctuary of Oropa in Piedmont. Continuing, he writes:

"We had to depart from the zone of war suddenly without money.

"My United States naturalization papers were burned in the St. Stephen's fire. I beg of you, dear friend, to get a copy of them. I need protection from the powerful United States government."

$826,000,000 Gold Reserve in France

By International News Service.

PARIS, July 29.—The gold reserve in the Bank of France at present is $826,000,000, it was announced today. During the past week the public purchased $15,000,000 worth of government notes, paying in gold. The total influx of gold into the Bank of France during the past months was nearly $40,000,000.

Frenchman Killed German Wife; Freed

PARIS, July 29.—Because she persistently praised the Germans, Andre Barbier Lyons, member of the engineer corps, killed his German wife with a revolver last June.

A courtmartial has acquitted him after his statement that daily she ridiculed his patriotism and scoffed at the French army.

ITALIANS DRIVE AUSTRIANS IN BIG BATTLE

By ANDRE BEAUMONT.

Boston American and London Daily Telegraph Exclusive Cable Service.

MILAN, July 29.—Following their previous brilliant achievements on the battlefield, Italian troops scored another considerable success when they stormed the heights of San Martino, bristling with fortifications, and occupied the village.

Farther to the right they pushed their attack from the Doberdo plateau and Redipuglia around Monte Sei Busi, encircling a large contingent of Austrian troops. They took 3,200 prisoners, as well as a large amount of provisions, ammunition and war material.

Simultaneously, severe fighting has been carried on around Monte San Michele, from the summit of which the Austrians have been definitely compelled to retreat.

TEUTON TOLL OF BRITISH SHIPS PASSES 229

LONDON, July 29.—Following Premier Asquith's declaration in the House of Commons that the German submarine menace is not serious, a Berlin dispatch declares German submarines had sunk in the war zone up to the 28th of July 229 English vessels, 20 other hostile ships, including six neutral craft that were sent to the bottom by mistake.

Twenty-seven additional neutral vessels, the dispatch adds, were examined and sunk because they carried contraband.

The British steamer Mangara of Glasgow, bound from Bilbao for Hartlepool, has been torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine near Lowestoff. Eight members of her crew were saved.

The Mangara was a vessel of 1521 tons and belonged to the Mangara Steamship Company of Glasgow.

The crew of the Swedish bark Sagndalen, which was set on fire by a German submarine in the North sea, is at Grimsby today.

GREAT BRITAIN WILL DEFEND BLOCKADE

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The supplemental note being prepared by Great Britain, it is learned, will defend the blockade of neutral ports.

Two developments not discussed in the original note will be taken up in the new communication. The first is the American caveat of July 17, conveying notification that the United States would not recognize the orders-in-council as a substitute for the provisions of international law.

The second point comes in connection with the enforced unloading on the London docks of the cargo of the American steamer Neches, June 24. The ship was en route from Rotterdam to New York with a cargo of non-contraband, mostly of German and Belgian origin. It included several thousand prayer books, rabbit skins, drugs and even some cotton. The British government asserted the right, under its blockade of Germany and that part of Belgium at present under German control, to prevent any goods from being exported, the sale of which might aid the enemy financially.

King Alfonso Runs Information Bureau

By International News Service.

MADRID, July 29.—"An information bureau" for the families of allied soldiers who have been made prisoners of war is being conducted by King Alfonso. It was learned today that the King is receiving thousands of letters daily requesting him to inquire after the health of French, British, Russian and Servian prisoners of war in Germany and Austria through the Spanish Ambassadors in those countries.

Just then Tim did come back.

What Is Love?

Is it the fierce mate-passion of one woman for one man or the great mother instinct merely turned into another channel?

Does real love fight jealously and hold tenaciously—or is it infinitely forgiving?

Marilka Briarley did not know—could not find the answer though she suffered and groped long for it.

Then suddenly it came to her thru the return of Tim himself and in the way her great fundamental womanhood instinctively met that returning.

The answer was not what you may think it, but that's only another reason why you should be sure to read Katherine Holland Brown's vital story, "Briarley's Real Woman," in the

FORMER BOSTON MAN SUICIDE IN NEW YORK

Word was received in Boston today from New York city of the suicide of Henry W. Wellington, a former Boston man, and former senior member of the firm of Wellington, Peirce & Co., 4 of Congress street.

Financial troubles are believed to be mainly responsible for the suicide. It became known today that a little more than a year ago Mr. Wellington passed through bankruptcy proceedings, after he had severed his connections with the Congress street firm.

Mr. Wellington was a member of an old Boston family, and for years lived in this city on Mount Vernon street, and later at the Copley Plaza. He attended Harvard College from 1891 to 1895. He was married, but had no children.

Some time ago he went to New York with his wife on a visit to his physician, Dr. John Weir Muller, at No. 4 West 48th street. Today while Dr. Muller was out on a call, Wellington seized the opportunity to end his life. He was found by the doctor on his return, lying on the floor, fully dressed.

Mrs. Wellington and Mrs. Muller, wife of the physician, are at present on a visit to Gloucester.

T. R. Invited to G. O. P. Clambake

An invitation to attend the big Republican clambake in Caledonia Grove, August 11, is to be extended to Theodore Roosevelt. The bid to come and hear good old-fashioned Republican doctrine, such as "Teddy" himself used to preach, from the lips of Henry Cabot Lodge, John W. Weeks and others, is to be extended by the Essex County Republican Club.

Fine of Million on City of Brussels

By International News Service.

HAVRE, France, July 29, via London.—A fine of $1,000,000 has just been levied upon the Belgian city of Brussels by the German military authorities because of the recent destruction of a Zeppelin hangar at Evers by aviators of the allies.

Order 800,000 Rifles.

NEW YORK, July 29.—The allies have ordered 800,000 rifles, at a reported cost of $27.50 a weapon, from the Westinghouse Electric Company.

ABANDON SEARCH FOR THE BODY OF DR. OTTO PANNER

Miss Abbie Short, the Roxbury girl mentioned in Dr. Otto Panner's "Suicide" note.

The Boston police today ceased their efforts to recover from the waters of Fort Point Channel the body of the mysterious Dr. Otto Panner. They are convinced that the story of his supposed suicide, on account of love for Miss Abbie Short, who lodged in the same house with him, at the residence of H. F. Hutchman, No. 11 Walt street, Roxbury, was untrue.

It is reported that a warrant will be asked for from the Roxbury Court by Mr. Hutchman for the arrest of Dr. Panner on the charge of passing a worthless check for $100. Up to 11 o'clock today no warrant had been asked for.

Meanwhile mystery surrounds the matrimonial status of Miss Short and the doctor. Miss Short until a few days ago was a nurse at the Robert B. Brigham Hospital, at which hospital Dr. Panner was employed as an orderly.

Panner claimed he was to commit suicide on account of love for Miss Short. Miss Short denied any engagement or even acquaintanceship with him, beyond the casual acquaintance of one boarder with another.

Mrs. Hutchman says that last Wednesday Miss Short said she was going to her home in Hudson to wed Dr. Panner. The girl's father, Bernard Short, and family live in Hudson. The family say the couple were there on Wednesday

'RALPH CONNOR' SAYS BRITAIN SEES PERIL

By International News Service.

TORONTO, Ont., July 29.—Rev. Dr. Charles W. Gordon, famous as an author and minister, chaplain of the Forty-third Battalion Cameron Highlanders, writes to the Toronto Globe, an intensely pro English newspaper, that Great Britain "faces the spectre of defeat in this war."

Dr. Gordon returned to Canada to bring back his brother, Lieutenant-Colonel Gordon of the Cameron Highlanders, who was dangerously wounded. Rev. Dr. Gordon's pen name in literature is Ralph Connor. He signs that name to the following extraordinary letter to the Toronto Globe:

By CHARLES W. GORDON
(Ralph Connor)

Everyone has been dutifully saying that this war is a serious business, but no man living, not even Kitchener himself, knew till three months ago just how serious it was. Kitchener knows now. Asquith knows.

Lloyd George knows. Bonar Law knows, the labor leaders of Britain and the labor unions know just how serious, how deadly serious, this war is.

OPTIMIST MISLEADS.

And on London streets and in London offices, in the drawing rooms and at week ends, men are asking each other in whispers, questions they would not dare to ask aloud, and are getting answers sometimes that give a queer feeling at their hearts.

Serious business indeed is this war. The issue of it, the cheerful and irresponsible optimistic, with his eye on the past when wars were waged by men and not by machines, and when valor, not explosives, won fights, declares to be assured.

Only one issue is possible—victory for our army. A pleasant man this cheerful optimist, till you notice that his eye is upon the back trail or in the clouds. When you know him, you damn him for a misleading fool.

Every man in the empire that ought to be listened to sees no hope of victory, absolutely none, and little hope of even a drawn battle, unless conditions be changed—changed so as to be utterly different from those under which the war has hitherto been waged.

The first impression one gets on reaching London, about two months ago, was that the traditional British cocksureness had been shattered and had been replaced by a paralyzing sense of uncertainty.

You caught it everywhere, on the streets, in the hotels, at dinners, in the House of Commons and in the press—even in the press. It was not so much what people said, but what they refused to say. It was the determined and obvious effort to be cheerful that depressed and disturbed. Everybody was saying to his neighbor: "Cheer up. Things will improve."

"But everybody, when by himself, refused to cheer up. He was mostly engaged during these lonely moments in blaming in his own way something or somebody and not the Germans either, but very largely those in the War Office.

That was wrong. The fact was simply this: The people are standing and looking with newly opened eyes at the spectre of defeat looming up through Channel mists, a spectre unlike the traditional spectres or our dreams sleeping or waking, in that it refused to disappear and wore a shining helmet.

REALITY HIDEOUS.

That spectre, unless conditions were changed, could not be laid, but would take on a reality of hedgeless and permanency for their children to contemplate for successive generations. There are people doubtless reading this line who pause to say, "Rot." But the British people are not saying "Rot" any more, and did not say "Rot" when their eyes were opened some two months and a half ago. Then the British people sat up broad awake and with that superb moral courage that faces men up to unpleasantness and terrible facts, looked the situation in the eye, and began forthwith to change things.

The government showed the way. With that fine power of sacrifice, which is the characteristic of the British statesman, Asquith met the crisis for crisis it was. It was a bitter hard day for the Premier, the bitterest and hardest day of his whole career, but he was equal to the demand made upon his patriotism. A coalition government was formed. Then the house cleaning began. Among other things, the War Office was reorganized. A new department was created with Lloyd George, that wonderful great little man at its head, as minister of munitions.

Up to this time the call had been for more men and more men. Now to the nation's ears came a new cry: "Munitions, munitions, and more munitions." That "wonder working little Welshman" was onto his job.

One question remains still to be answered.

What is to be the issue of this serious war? The answer in plain, so plain that even the ever-hopeful optimist can see it. And the answer is this:

If the change in conditions so splendidly initiated be not continued and with ever-increasing acceleration the issue is "Defeat."

What, then, is the immediate duty of Canadians? To raise large sums of money? Not so much. Old John Bull may be safely trusted to look after the financing of this war. But for Canada two things lie to her hand. Listen to the insistent iteration of Lloyd-George: "Munitions and machine guns, munitions and machine guns."

"Let every Canadian wheel that can turn on a shell be set agoing. Let every Canadian workman and workwoman that can get to a munition factory or gun factory get there with all speed. Shells and more shells, machine guns and more machine guns!

FACE SHAME AND SLAVERY.

Where Britain, soldiers has two machine guns, Germans have forty. Shells spent with prodigality—even wasted—mean battalions saved. We have tried fighting machine guns with men, and have learned a bitter lesson.

Canadian shells and machine guns mean the saving of Canadian men. Seriously, soberly, solemnly, let it be said that, unless the empire can furnish in overwhelming quantities munitions of war and in overwhelming numbers men, the bitterness and humiliation of defeat will be our portions and shame and slavery of an infamous and tyrannous militarism will be the portion of our children.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. A. F. Peeler, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."

Dr. Frederick D. Rogers, of Chicago, Ill., says: I have found Fletcher's Castoria very useful in the treatment of children's complaints.

Dr. William C. Bloomer, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: In my practice I am glad to recommend your Castoria, knowing it is perfectly harmless and always satisfactory.

Dr. R. Down, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in my practice for many years with great satisfaction to myself and benefit to my patients."

Dr. Edward Parrish, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild laxative effect and freedom from harm."

Dr. J. B. Elliott, of New York City, says: "Having during the past six years prescribed your Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartily commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children."

Dr. C. G. Sprague, of Omaha, Neb., says: "Your Castoria is an ideal medicine for children, and I frequently prescribe it. While I do not advocate the indiscriminate use of proprietary medicines, yet Castoria is an exception for conditions which arise in the case of children."

Dr. J. A. Parker, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact, it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."

Dr. H. F. Merrill, of Augusta, Me., says: "Castoria is one of the very finest and most remarkable remedies for infants and children. In my opinion your Castoria has saved thousands from an early grave. I can furnish hundreds of testimonials from this locality as to its efficiency and merits."

"THE GODDESS"

By GOUVERNEUR MORRIS and CHARLES W. GODDARD

By Gouverneur Morris and Charles W. Goddard

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

SHE neither looked at Tommy nor spoke to him, but as the clock began to strike 5 she hurried out on the rear platform, descended to the ground and crossed the down track to a large, black touring car that was waiting at the side of the road, the engine turning slowly.

The driver of the car, a dark man, heavily goggled, sprang to the door for Celestia. Freddie the Ferret, who was hanging about, also sprang to perform the same office. Celestia threw her arms about Freddie in a dazed way just as Tommy arrived to help her into the car.

At least he was the one to get his hand on the doorknob. But he did not at once open the door. Celestia's behavior was so strange that he thought she must be ill. While he hesitated, the driver said: "Here—one side."

"Are you speaking to me?" said Tommy, icily.

The man did not answer. He merely attempted to get hold of the doorknob, and failed.

"Better luck next time," said Tommy.

"Please open the door," said Celestia, "I have to go for a drive."

"What do you want mixing in this?" said the driver. Tommy did not answer, but said to Celestia:

"I wouldn't go alone with this man. Why not take me to look after you? I won't speak even once, if you'd rather not."

"Better get in, Miss," said the driver.

"Something wrong here," said Tommy, as Celestia pushed him gently to one side, and started to open the door for herself.

"Hurry up," said the driver.

Celestia hurried and Tommy's face began to flame with rage. At the same time he formed a pretty shrewd guess at the condition Celestia was in.

"How can you tolerate such insolence?" he exclaimed, his brows lowering.

"I have to do everything the driver says," exclaimed Celestia in an unemotional voice.

She climbed into the car and shut the door after her, the driver sprang to his seat, and Tommy stepped calmly on to the footboard. The driver, seeing this, attempted to throw Tommy off the footboard.

Tommy simply got his fingers in the man's collar, jerked him clear of the car, and let go. The man fell heavily on his head and lay still.

"If you have to do everything the driver says," cried Tommy in a jubilant voice, "I shall be the driver! Jump in, Freddie, while the jumping is good. I may need you."

Freddie jumped in and seated himself by Celestia with every evidence of pride and importance, and the car lurched forward just as its former driver began to show signs of life.

It was only a hundred yards to where the road entered the woods —a dense second growth of spruce, birch, pine, balsam and larch, succeeded after about a mile by a splendid fragment of primeval forest. Here Tommy brought the car to a stop, got out, and opened the door of the tonneau.

"I'd like you to sit in front, by me," he said gently.

And Celestia obeyed him like an automaton.

"There's dirty work here," thought Tommy. And once more the car went forward. He addressed various questions to her, but got no answers. It was as if she did not hear him. She sat bolt upright, looking straight ahead with unseeing eyes. It was only when he spoke words or phrases with a semblance of command that she showed signs of understanding—as when he said, "Don't try to fight this road. Take it easy—lean back."

The road came out of the forest, passed between two swamps and ascended a long hill, fenced and pastured, from which there was a view of rough farm land, and in the distance a wooden village with a steeple in the midst.

At the bottom of the hill a car had skidded from the road and come to grief in a boggy ditch. The driver was trying to lever it out with a fence rail. Two women stood watching him.

At the sound of Tommy's car sweeping down from them they looked around, and Tommy recognized Mary Blackstone and Mrs. Gunsdorf. His face became white and grim. He gave his engine more gas and rushed by them, hurling a column of thick dust high in the air.

Mrs. Gunsdorf, at sight of Celestia, became for a moment like a stone image of horror. Only her head turned a little, and so standing, she looked after the car. Then very slowly, as if she was lifting heavy weights, her arms, twisted and tense, rose from her sides, reached the horizontal—and then without a word or a sound she dropped dead in the dust.

Next to the church in the village stood the little parsonage. A car was drawn up in front of this, and in the middle of the road looking expectantly at the car which Tommy Appears in the nick of time to find Celestia.

Tommy was driving, stood Professor Stilliter with a white flower in his buttonhole. Also on the lookout was a clergyman and a lady who was doubtless his wife.

To Tommy the scene was like a page in a book, written for children in words of two syllables: Stilliter, the white flower, the clergyman. It was almost too simple.

To Stilliter the driver who should bring Celestia to him was a man of importance. Not until the car was almost upon him with undiminished speed did he divert his eyes from Celestia's face to that of the man beside her. Upon the face of that man there was a jubilant, boyish grin.

Exquisite Hair Tinting

There is a new preparation on the market that is so entirely harmless and so easy to use that there is really no excuse for any woman (or man) to longer tolerate grey or streaked hair.

"Brownatone" meets and overcomes every objection heretofore found to hair stains and is so pleasing in its uniformly splendid results that it has within a few months made thousands of friends who could not now be induced to use anything else.

"Brownatone" is the result of most exhaustive experiments and is absolutely guaranteed satisfactory or money will be returned.

It positively cannot be detected, will not rub off or wash off, and is harmless and permanent in every way.

Prepared in two shades—one for golden or medium brown—the other for dark brown or black. Also in two sizes, 25c and $1.00.

A trial size and an interesting booklet will be sent upon receipt of ten cents, or we will fill your orders direct if your druggist insists upon substituting.

Insist on "Brownatone" at your hairdresser's.

Made only by the Kenton Pharmacal Co., 127 E. Pike St., Covington, Ky.

For sale in Boston by all stores of the Riker-Jaynes Co., and other leading dealers.

I SAW a whole row of 'em the other day in a small country town (there's where they grow—the wearers of the laurel, and the crown of financial renown)—all in a blessed row in all its stages of 'fat kidhood.' I slowed my car down so I might see them well, as they crouched like a company of rabbits on a grassy bank. This isn't all of them—never no! Only a wild clutch at the best of 'em. And admiring them I thought, 'This is great stuff—the stuff that the great are made of. All you faces of great men, severe faces, dreaming faces, puzzling faces, and splendid ones that we grow familiar with in the things that tell about you—you were just little kids, you had freckles on your nose, and your folks ate in the kitchen, and you played a 'mouth-organ' and wore a hard canvas cap with the letters of somebody's soap in sunset colors around your head. You were just this—a funny and dear and poor little kid." And I surveyed this lovable and varied little band; little patched one with your soap cap; debonair boy with the overalls and "Beanie" and the one tooth "among the missing;" cotton-topped chubby with the little Dutch coat and the bare, curled toes and the sun in your eyes; jockey-capped "feller" with the pink waist and the blue overalls scrubbed gray at the busy knees; puffing chappie with the "ole" white hat and the mahogany-colored legs; round baby with the socks of great wealth and whose toes were shiny only because they were new; and lanky kid with a polka-dot tie that you stuff in your pocket the minute you get out of sight of home (I know from when I was a little girl, with the freckles and the rags and not a bib of glass in the sun. And I thought, "Here sit the great, sure enough: You with the missing tooth will dream the poetry that will chant the spirit of your country aloud—and Dutch-jacket will smile with the same ghost of a squint down from the steps of the White House some day. And lots of folks will never believe that he ever curled his toes in the dust of a country lane and wore a safety-pin on his breast! Under the little print shirt and behind the peak of the battered cap of the humblest little trudger you pass is the heart and the brain perhaps of a figure that will loom against the sky, throwing its shadow across a continent of listening people."—NELL BRINKLEY.

One on Barrett.

Wilson Barrett, the celebrated actor, used to tell an amusing story against himself. At a time when he had a lot of workmen redecorating his private residence, thinking to give them a treat, he asked if after work one evening, they would like to have seats to go and see him play in "The Lights o' London," at the Princess Theatre. They said they didn't mind if they did, and, being complimentary tickets, all went on a Saturday night to see their employer's performance.

At the end of the week Barrett's eye caught sight of this item against each workman's name on the pay sheet: "Saturday night. Four hours' overtime at Princess Theatre, eight shillings."

Good for Skin Diseases

The important thing in treating many skin diseases is to keep water away from the inflamed parts and make the covering as air tight as possible. This, according to a very distinguished New York physician, seems to kill the germ and set up the healing process quickly. Cadum, the well-known ointment, supplies that kind of a covering, and keeps out the air. This covering consists of petroleum and white wax, which Cadum contains. Two other ingredients of Cadum are zinc oxide, which dries up the water that comes from the sores, and oil of cade, which is one of the oldest and best known remedies for Eczema. Physicians everywhere employ oil of cade more often, perhaps, than any other one thing in treating Eczema. Buy a trial box of any druggist for 50c.—Advertisement.

What to Do to Get Fat and Increase Weight

The Real Cause of Thinness

A Physician's Advice

Most thin people eat from four to six pounds of good solid fat-making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce, while on the other hand many of the plump, chunky folks eat very lightly and keep gaining all the time. All goes to say that this is the nature of the individual. It isn't Nature's way at all.

Thin folks stay thin because their powers of assimilation are defective. They absorb just enough of the fatty matter to maintain life and a semblance of physical strength. Stuffing won't help them. A dozen meals a day won't make them "stay there" permanently. All the fat-producing elements of their food just slip through the intestines until passed from the body. Some scientific people claim that something must be added to these fatty food elements so that the blood can absorb them and deposit them all about the body. Something, too, that will multiply their red blood corpuscles and increase the blood's carrying power.

For such a condition I always recommend eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is not, as some believe, a patented drug, but is a scientific combination of six of the most effective and concentrated fat-producing elements known to chemistry. In this concentrated form, yet wonderfully effective and safe, these tablets enter with each meal often into the effect of increasing the weight of a thin man or woman from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by good druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back.

MALDEN MAN'S SCHOONER IS WRECKED

A cablegram was received in Malden today at the home of Captain William Nelson of No. 5 Oliver street, saying that the four-masted schooner Sallie Marzelj, of which Captain Nelson was the skipper, was lost off the coast of Venezuela. No further details of the loss of the vessel were contained in the cable message, and the fate of the skipper and crew is yet to be learned.

The Sallie Marzelj left New York a few weeks ago with a cargo of coal for Brazil. After discharging this she proceeded to Venezuela to take on a cargo of fertilizer for the New England market.

Captain Nelson's wife and daughter are very much concerned over the disaster.

Acute Articular Rheumatism

Relieved By Anti-Kamnia Tablets

The exact cause of rheumatism is unknown, though it is generally believed to be due to an excess of uric acid in the blood. It may be so, and with equal truth that to remedy has been found which is a specific in all cases. In fact the literature of rheumatism shows that there are but few which have not been given a trial. In the hands of one observer we find that a certain drug has been used with the utmost satisfaction; others have found the same remedy to be a great disappointment. All physicians however agree that every method of treatment is aided by the administration of some remedy to relieve the pain and quiet the nervous system and Dr. W. S. Schultze expresses the opinion of thousands of practitioners when he says that Anti-Kamnia Tablets should be given preference over all other remedies for the relief of the pain in all forms of rheumatism. These tablets can be purchased in any quantity. They are also unsurpassed in headaches, neuralgia and all pain. - Ask for A-K Tablets

MRS. DOLAN SAYS WIFE MAY PICK HUSBAND'S POCKETS

If a husband puts his money in his pocket and keeps it there, has his wife a right to pick his pockets at night?

Some say yes, and some say no. You see there's a difference of opinion—

The discussion started when Winslow I. Wentworth of Brockton told the Court in that city that his wife picked his pockets. The wife said in court that she did it on her lawyer's advice because that was the only way she could get any money.

Boston men and women, both married and single, are talking the problem over and some of them are willing to express their opinions. Here are some of the statements:

Mrs. Florence Johnson Dolan, Boston business woman who votes "yes" on the question "Has a Wife a Right to Pick Her Husband's Pockets?"

MRS. FLORENCE JOHNSON DOLAN, Boston Business Woman:

The right of a wife to search her husband's pockets is indictionable, and the lawyer, the man of business, or anyone who would attempt to deny her this right is false to our institutions.

When a couple get married they become one. Each takes the other for better or for worse. If one fails in the things of life and the other succeeds, the more fortunate one is supposed to share in his or her success. That's an axiom.

Of course, some men are so no-good that their wives have to mean they put stumbling blocks in the way of wives getting their money. Some lock their money in safe deposit vaults, others carry on their financial business by means of checks.

This latter method makes it impossible for a wife to get money from her "hubby's" trousers.

DETECTIVE SERGEANT WILLIAM J. IRWIN DETECTIVE SERGEANT JOHN ANDERSON AND INSPECTOR JAMES DENNESSY:

Not only would we refuse to request a warrant in such a case, but no court would grant one.

ATTORNEY LEON R. EVGINS:

I'm married. My wife would seek a divorce were I to give a written opinion. Verbally I have no hesitancy in saying a wife has no right to filch money from her husband's pockets or pocketbooks. My wife wouldn't do such a thing.

As a solution of the problem—I should suggest that they go to some court and get out an injunction restraining their better halves from searching their pockets while asleep.

ALVA G. TIBBETTS, No. 30 Pemberton square:

Legally I should say a wife would not be guilty of larceny. As I am not married, I am not competent to discuss the question from a practical point of view.

PHILIP B. KERNAN of Chelsea:

What's his is hers. There's nothing illegal about a wife putting her hand in her husband's pockets in search of money.

MICHAEL F. HORAN, No. 2383 Washington street:

I think the wife who is lucky enough to find any money in her husband's pocket is entitled to keep it. I don't think there is any international law involved if it was over a quarter. But if it was over that amount it would be a calamity. Most wives of today do not have to resort to this method. A husband ought to treat his wife as a business partner on a fifty-fifty basis.

ALBERT CONNELL of Roxbury:

Some wives apparently have to use dynamite to get money from their husbands. Still, the public condemns the bachelor and wants to tax him and lauds the married man. I'm not married. Enough said.

DANIEL W. FLYNN of Dorchester:

It's pretty rough on the wives when they have to turn pickpockets. If a wife cannot get money from her husband she is entitled to take his suit as well as the contents of the pockets.

FORMER REPRESENTATIVE JOHN J. CUMMINGS of Ward 20:

I've always been a horror of a wife searching my pockets. That's why I'm not married. I think we bachelors all agree that married women have a right to extract all the money they can find in the clothing of their lords and masters.

J. FRANK O'BRIEN of the Kimball Building:

Not being a married man, I don't have to conceal my cash. I can go to sleep without any worry.

CHARLES C. WARREN, married, Kimball Building:

I can see no objection to a wife searching her husband's pockets. I think it's perfectly legal. For all I know my wife examines the pockets of my clothing. If she finds anything that interests her she's entitled to look it over.

SHERIFF JOHN QUINN, JR.:

I'm a bachelor and cannot speak with authority on the acts of a wife examining her husband's pockets. It's a well-founded custom, though.

It was ever thus. No law can prevent that curiosity on the part of a wife. A man and wife cannot make a contract. They are considered one before the law. Of course, when it comes to the Charles street jail bastile thumbands are kept apart from their wives. Poor hubby is safe there and is at peace with all mankind as well as womankind.

JOSEPH LUNDY of the Carney Building:

Properly equipped with that Western optimism so eloquently extolled by visitors from that section, I see nothing to prevent a wife from searching the pockets of her husband's jeans.

George M. Wethern Dies in Roxbury

HANDTUBS PLAY FOR PRIZES IN CHELSEA

The annual playout of handtubs of the New England Veteran Firemen's Association began on the Carter street playground in Chelsea at one o'clock today, with eleven tubs competing for $600 in cash prizes.

The tubs competing were: Germania of Chelsea, O. K. O. of Marblehead, Fountain of South Hadley Falls, Converse of Malden, Hingham of Hingham, General Tasker of Everett, Red Jacket of Cambridge, Hancock of Brockton, Paul Revere of Revere, White Angel of Salem and Libe ty of Chelsea.

The playout followed a parade of the competing tubs and companies, to which were added numerous bands and the entire Chelsea fire department. Mayor James M. Maloney reviewed the line at City Hall. The route of the parade was profusely decorated with bunting and flags, while applauding thousands watched from sidewalks, windows and roofs. Lawrence Quigley was chief marshal.

The $600 in prizes is divided into eight prizes, ranging from $200 down to $10, with $25 special for the company coming the longest distance, and a silver cup for the company making best appearance in the parade.

French Aviators Killed.

1887-LES-MOULINEAUX, France, July 29.—The pilot and observer were both killed when a French military aeroplane fell 1,000 feet to the ground near here today.

Arrest Downing, Cowles' Butler, in Assault Case

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 29.—John Downing, butler for Dr. Edward S. Cowles, one of the central figures in the Cowles crossbill divorce tangle, was arrested at Dover today on a charge of assault on William Boucher, chauffeur for John F. Hale Chandler, son of former United States Senator William E. Chandler.

According to the police the arrest was the result of a fight at Dr. Cowles' place.

Boucher is now at the Portsmouth hospital in a critical condition. He is suffering from a severe scalp wound, and his arms and legs are paralyzed.

The police story is that Downing and Boucher, who was visiting his employer, a patient at the Cowles sanatorium, quarreled, and that Boucher was pushed through a window and fell ten feet to a pavement, striking on his head.

Boy of 11 Held in Chelsea Fire Case

Charles J. Taylor, eleven, in the Chelsea court today was held in $1,000 for the Grand Jury on a charge of setting fire to the building at No. 18 Hawthorne street.

$50 Fine in Shoe Case.

David Schaffer, 18, of Winthrop, accused of receiving thirty-six pairs of ladies' shoes stolen from the Boston & Maine Railroad, was fined $50 in East Boston Court today.

HIDE OFFICIALS INVOLVED IN JAP BRIBERY

By MERRITT F. PRESTON,
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

TOKIO, July 29.—One of the gravest scandals in the history of Japan has developed as a result of the investigation of charges that bribery was committed at the last election.

It was announced today that a number of prominent officials had been arrested, including Chief Secretary Hayashida of the lower house of the Diet. Others are under surveillance.

Viscount Kanetaki Oura, who became Minister of the Interior on January 7, has resigned, following a report of investigations that he handled the bribe money.

Minister of Justice Ozaki stated today that the guilty men would be prosecuted regardless of the positions they hold. The affair resulted in the fall of the Okuma cabinet, which was indorsed in the election.

Tax Commission Elect Secretary

The special commission on taxation elected John D. Wright of Boston as secretary today, and after a general discussion of the problems before it, adjourned until Thursday, August 5. The commission will meet weekly, and will give public hearings beginning in September.

Favor Exeter Street Yards for Terminal

At the first meeting today of the Transportation Commission, created by the last Legislature, to study transportation and terminal improvements in Boston, former Senator Malcolm E. Nichols of Boston advocated a mammoth freight and passenger terminal on the site of the present Exeter street yards of the Boston & Albany. This was favored by M. H. Gulesian, president of the Huntington Avenue Improvement Association. Former Senator Nichols said such a terminal would increase real estate values in the vicinity fully $25,000,000. He urged that the whole port problem in Boston is largely a railroad problem.

HOW I DARKENED MY GRAY HAIR

Lady Gives Simple Home Recipe That She Used to Darken Her Gray Hair.

For years I tried to restore my gray hair to its natural color with the preparations, dyes and stains, but none of them gave satisfaction and they were all expensive. I finally ran onto a simple recipe which I mixed at home that gives wonderful results. I gave the recipe, which is as follows, to a number of my friends, and they are all delighted with it. To 7 ozs. of water add a small box of Barbo Compound, 1 oz. of bay rum and ¼ oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Use every other day until the hair becomes the required shade, then every two weeks. It will not only darken the gray hair, but removes dandruff and scalp humors, and acts as a tonic to the hair. It is not sticky or greasy, does not rub off and does not color the scalp.

U. S. BUILDING GUN BASES ON N. E. COAST

The United States is preparing the New England coast for defence against invasion, it became known today, by building cement gun platforms on cliffs along the Maine and New Hampshire shores at strategic points.

In addition the army engineers are making up a new military map of the New England coast, to replace the present one used by the War Department, which was made in 1844, and which army experts claim is now almost useless.

PLAN CHANGE IN BOSTON STREET CLEANING

Following editorials in the AMERICAN, the city is taking steps looking to the adoption of a method of sanitary street cleaning.

The action is taken by Mayor Curley, and eventually Boston's street-cleaning and dust-laying methods will probably be completely revolutionized.

The old dry-sweeping plan—that is, sweeping of streets when the dust and dirt have once been set in motion—is to be done away with. Instead the streets may be washed or flushed. If there is sweeping it is to be done after the dirt and dust are wet down, and it is likely the flushing will follow to make the cleansing thorough.

For a long time there have been complaints about the old dry-sweeping system. On July 1 the AMERICAN called attention to this great evil in the following words:

In the meantime it is not necessary to borrow money to keep down the dust of the streets which is affecting our eyes, our noses and our ears to the destruction of our comfort and the dangers of our health.

Some months ago the AMERICAN called attention to the practice of sweeping the streets by the city employes when the dust had not been wet down, and also the sweeping of the sidewalks by abutters without first sprinkling the dust. This is an intolerable nuisance. It simply transfers the dust, whence it is comparatively harmless, to our persons.

The city government ought to stop this practice immediately. There ought to be an ordinance to compel abutters to sprinkle the sidewalks before they sweep them and the city men ought not to be allowed to sweep the streets until the sprinkler has laid the dirt.

Certainly there is no need of borrowing money to make free use of our sprinklers. On dry, windy days they ought to be out all the time.

The Board of Health should investigate this evil practice and aid in putting it down. Last March was the driest for a decade, yet the people of Boston were suffering severely from colds caught from the germ-laden dust which was unnecessarily raised into their noses and mouths.

Mayor Curley received many suggestions of better methods on his recent western trip. The present work is experimental in an effort to find the best method. Streets will be swept and flushed and late they will be simply flushed and a comparison will be made of the effects of the two systems of cleaning.

Meanwhile the street department, under direction of Commissioner of Public Works Murphy, is trying experiments with dust layers. On Park street the department is using a patent dust layer. It comes in powdered form and is applied when dissolved in water.

On St. Botolph, Pembroke, East and West Newton streets emulsified oil is being compared with a non-asphalting oil, in an effort to see which is the better method to be pursued for dust laying.

ELSIE FERGUSON, "WINNER IN LOVE," TO WED YALE MAN

Elsie Feguson, the popular actress, who is engaged to Thomas Benedict Clarke, Jr., banker and Yale graduate.

NEW YORK, July 29.—Elsie Ferguson, the popular and charming actress, is to become the wife of Thomas Benedict Clarke, Jr., Yale graduate, financier and clubman of this city. Mrs. Amelia Ferguson, the star's mother, made the announcement of the engagement last night from her home, 222 Central Park South.

Coming on the heels of the actress' return from Los Angeles, where she ended her season's long run in "Outcast," the announcement was a surprise to her many friends and admirers.

Miss Ferguson has not confided to her friends whether she intends to leave the stage following her marriage, but in a recent interview she said:

"I am ready to quit the stage at any time. I have reached the pinnacle I have sought and I am satisfied."

In the same interview the young woman said:

"A woman is a poor loser in every game, especially love.

"A woman never lets go anything she has once possessed.

"A woman always resents the marriage of her discarded sweetheart to someone else.

"A woman cannot understand honor as a sportsman or a gentleman does; she wishes to win by only when she gets something."

Mr. Clarke, who is Miss Ferguson's senior by several years, recently resigned as adjutant of Squadron A. He has been prominent in New York society circles. The announcement of his engagement to the actress probably will surprise most of his friends.

He is a member of many clubs, including the Yale, University, Brook, Racquet and Knickerbocker Hunt. His father is Thomas B. Clarke, a well-known art collector.

Would Shift Eaton Divorce to Boston

While the divorce suit brought by Charles S. Eaton, owner of Thompson's Spa, against his wife, Ella F. Eaton, of Pasadena, Cal., is listed to begin Monday morning in the Essex Superior Court, Salem, it became known today that every effort was being made to have the case transferred to the Suffolk Superior Court, Boston, for trial. That the trial will be transferred is the belief of Salem court attaches, who base this belief on the fact that the special session has ever before been held in their city.

AN OFFICIAL OF MALDEN'S REPORT

C. W. Bennet, Justice of the Peace, Relates the True Conditions.

Plant Juice, the new herbal system tonic, brings the sunshine of health to a poor body that has long suffered in the winter of sickness. Many local men and women who have been suffering from stomach disorders with their accompanying distressing symptoms have felt the sunshine of health, as their numerous testimonials show.

Mr. C. W. Bennet, who resides at No. 8 Cross street, Malden, Mass., and has resided here for the past ten years, and who had been well known through the entire city, as he is a Justice of the Peace, recently stated:

"For some time past I have suffered with stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia. My food fermented and caused gas, which was very painful. I had heartburn and a sort of run-down condition. My wife was also troubled with dyspepsia and was in a very miserable condition. She had been reading in a Boston paper regarding your preparation and finally decided to try it. It has certainly benefited us greatly and we cheerfully recommend Plant Juice to all who suffer from stomach trouble."

Such words as these and that of many others have been heard, carried have a wide influence, for they come from men of standing and integrity who have found Plant Juice a fair trial and have been benefited thereby.

There are numerous symptoms of this trouble, but Plant Juice will relieve. In fact, any of the following may denote affections of the stomach: indigestion, dyspepsia, belching of wind, bad breath, sick, throbbing headache, poor circulation, night sweats, that tired feeling, costiveness, coated tongue or a poor complexion.

The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Company's Store, corner of Washington and Avon streets, where he daily meets the local public and introduces and explains the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

PRATT TO FIGHT TRANSFER OF KELIHER

Harvey H. Pratt, counsel for Mrs. William J. Keliher in her attempt to prevent "Big Bill's" removal to the Federal prison at Atlanta, has held conference with Keliher as a result of which he planned to protest on three grounds.

First—That Keliher has been a model prisoner, with no black marks, and that he ought to be allowed to work out his salvation at Charlestown.

Second—That he ought not to be cut off from the possibility of seeing his wife once a month as at present.

Third—That it would be a great hardship to transfer a born and bred New Englander to the enervating climate at Atlanta.

Mr. Pratt said Keliher told him he will be eligible for parole in twenty-five months, after having served one-third of his sentence.

Attorney Pratt was engaged by Mrs. Keliher, who had two conferences with her husband in the prison. Pratt said he had discovered no legal precedents for objecting to Keliher's removal.

The Federal authorities have ordered the removal of Keliher and other Federal prisoners because the State of Massachusetts has raised their board from thirty-five to sixty cents a day.

U. S. MARINES IN FULL CONTROL IN HAITI

By International News Service.

Carpenter reports that his action was taken after consulting American, British and French officers and that no serious disturbance has taken place since the landing.

The report continues that the U. S. battleship Eagle has landed twenty men to protect the French consulate at the request of the consul.

Before the marines were landed, General Oscar, Governor of Port-au-Prince, had ordered and overseen the execution of 160 political prisoners, had been himself captured and shot, and President Guilhaume, who had taken refuge in the French legation, had been assassinated.

Margaret Foley Loses Voice from Much Speaking

Margaret Foley has lost her voice.

The dreadful news leaked out by way of Brockton. Miss Foley was to have won a few hundred votes there by addressing a noon meeting of employes of the W. L. Douglas Company.

When the meeting opened, Mrs. Clara M. Folger, president of the Brockton Suffrage Club, announced that constant talking, or at least, constant public speaking, had robbed Miss Foley of her ablest ally. Mrs. Julius Hulsteen took Miss Foley's place.

Miss Foley was besieged today with condolences, and a large number of them did not come from anti-suffragists.

Fine Tobin $20 for Assaulting Officer

For assaulting Officer Thomas March of the Broadway station, South Boston, William Tobin, of West Third street, was fined $20 by Judge Logan today. Tobin was arrested for drunkenness, and, according to the officer, while waiting for the patrol wagon, at Broadway and E street, choked him and assaulted him with his hat.

"THE RABBITS" COLUMN By Walter J. Maranville SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

CINCINNATI, July 29.—President Tener of the National League has promulgated an order to the effect that no one will be permitted to talk from the bench and that the athletes will not be allowed to sit outside their coop. The president also says that in the future he intends punishing every athlete who has a run-in with an umpire.

Johnny Evers was the only athlete who showed nerve enough to kid Mr. Tener about the order. Going up to bat in the fifth inning of last Saturday's game Johnny turned to where Mr. Tener was sitting and held his hand to his mouth. Then he yelled: "Next week we will have Dummy Hoy and Philip Rudolph with us. There will also be a prayer meeting before each contest." What Mr. Tener thought of this speech remains to be seen.

• • •

In the midst of all these orders and bumpings in the Camp de Cub it was left to Heinie Zim to introduce something in the comedy line, although it isn't a joke with the Bronx slugger. He was handed a telegram just before the Saturday game, informing him of his $100 fine. He told Evers about it, and then Jawn pulled his message, which read along the same lines.

Evers' wire, however, typewritten, whereas Zim's was written out in long hand. Heinie saw the difference and let out a big laugh. "Trying to put something over on me, eh? You guys think you are smart."

After the contest Zim hunted up the Western Union office, called for the manager and after reading the telegram, tossed it into his face. "You're in on this stuff, too? You're another guy that don't put any of this funny business over on me."

After this outburst he walked away, leaving the telegraph man all excited. Even now Heinie thinks the entire affair is a joke, so his surprise is coming when he finds his next check $100 shy. Maybe the joke will be on him then.

"I think the National League is stronger in pitchers than for many years," said President Tener the other day. "That is one of the reasons why the race is so close. The Phillies have in Alexander the king of them all. Mayer of the same team is not far behind Alexander in skill.

"The Cubs, with Pierce, Cheney, Humphries, Vaughn and Evers der, also are well fixed in the box. Then Brooklyn has Coombs, Rucker, Dell, Smith, Appleton, Pfeffer and Douglas. The Giants are well equipped, too, with Mathewson, Tesreau, Marquard, Perritt and Stroud. And don't overlook Peak, Griner, Sallee, Robinson and Meadows of the Cardinals. The Pittsburghs are very formidable, too, with Mamaux, Harmon, Adams and McQuillan.

"The Braves are getting some excellent work from Rudolph, Tyler, Ragan, Davis and Hughes, and James seems will be able to help them. Even Cincinnati has at least three good men in Dale, Lear and Benton. It certainly is a great year for us in the box."

• • •

The Reds can console themselves a little with one unique record anyway, they have spelled the winning streak of all the leaders, one after another. Just let a team get decisive, accumulate a long string of victories, and begin to feel as if it owned the world and the Reds go to the pennant—and along will come Heck and Andy Reds and kick the stuffing out of the beautiful dream. Ah, well—it's nice to know that this ball club has SOME sort of a mission to perform, anyway!

• • •

The downfall of the Cubs was really the big noise of the July campaign. They received beatings at Brooklyn, New York and Philadelphia, fairly often worse than the Reds, and, of course, were dragged down from their lofty position. Despite the thoroughness of the whaling the Cubs received, however, nobody considers them a dead team yet. Their machinery simply slacked and and some of the wheels got creaky. Within another week, so the players of all the Eastern teams believe, the Cubs will regain their stride, and will start on the up-grade again, unless Naler should step out of the line-up for a lengthy period.

Larry Lajoie is showing his real manhood by devoting all his leisure time to teaching Ted Malone, the new second sacker of the Athletics, the intricacies of the second basing job.

Malone is a 1915 college graduate and looks like a comer. Lajoie is old and fading. Without Lajoie's aid it might be two or three years before Malone would develop into a real star. But the fact that length of time Lajoie would be pretty sure of a job as the Athletic regular. But Lajoie doesn't think about himself. He is thinking about the man he is working for—Connie Mack—and he is trying to develop his successor as quickly as possible, not minding what will become of himself.

It is stated that Manager Moran of the Phillies might sign Jack Pfeister, the old-time Cub twirler. He said that if he does take Pfeister it will be for the purpose of coaching the young twirlers, but some of the wise ones here claim the old fellow will be allowed to take his regular place in the box if his work will warrant. Pfeister has been pitching this season for the Bradley Hills, a strong semi-professional team of Cincinnati, and his work has been remarkable in that he has pitched nineteen successive victories.

"So far from jumping his team, or even threatening to quit," said Manager Herzog today, "both Lear and Benton are in the park early mornings in uniform; both of them pitch steadily and well in the practice work and both show every evidence of the right spirit —the desire to get good control of the ball and pitch some class stuff. I don't believe for one minute that either of them wants to quit. Any time anyone of my men really wants to go I'll get him a time table and find him a man to carry his grips to the train, but Lear and Benton aren't that kind."

With these words Herzog disposed of the rumor that Benton and Lear intended to jump the Reds if held off without pay till they got control over the whizzing sphere.

GETAWAY BATTLE WITH ROWLANDS

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

It's a hoss apiece up at the ball yard. In other words, the White Sox and the Red Sox have each won a game in the series. The third and final battle will be staged this afternoon.

Two mighty hot battles have been fought and no doubt the windup will be just as close and exciting. The White Sox, in spite of the severe trimming handed to them by the Red Sox in Chicago about ten days ago, refuse to be counted out of the running. They are sticking right up close and feel sure they will take advantage of any slip-up on the part of the league leaders.

Little George Foster will likely do the pitching for Our Boys today and probably Benz or Fisher will go on the mound for Chicago. Foster is leading the American League pitchers just now and it is good betting he will work his head off to maintain the lead and also to help his teammates win another game. No player in the Red Sox is rooting more fervently for victory than Little George Foster, the Oklahoma farmer.

Large crowds have attended the first two games. It goes without saying that if the weather remains kind —the weather man says "unsettled"— there will be another big outpouring of fans this afternoon. The Rowlands bunch has shown that it is not to be trifled with. The team is still in the hunt.

Gaffney Admits He Is One Happy Guy

President James E. Gaffney of the Braves returned to Boston last night. He is here to see the finishing touches put on his new baseball palace. The yard is slated to be dedicated when the Braves return from the West, August 15. The St. Louis Cardinals get the plum.

Mr. Gaffney admits he is feeling much better. The long jaunt to see Manager Stallings he had a bad ball effect.

"You told me the same thing a year ago, but I sure fooled you," was the remark Mr. Miller, Ella Bryson, J. J. Lillis.

Lynn Fan in Fight to Finish for Trip in World's Series

George Hawkes.

If you don't believe that Boston and New England is baseball mad just take a few hours off and journey up to Fenway Park, where the Red Sox are battling it out with the Chicago White Sox and, incidentally—but incidentally, of course —"NAILING DOWN" the American League pennant for BOSTON.

It's not difficult to imagine what the mental condition of New England fans will be when next October rolls around.

It will simply be a case of every fan in New England—able to walk —trying to get the necessary credentials to see the World's Championship Games. And one thing seems sure—thousands may be disappointed as in previous years and have to enjoy the annual baseball classic by proxy in front of a newspaper bulletin board.

It would be mighty fine to see all of this years Championship Games—also them FREE—and travel from city to city—wherever they may be played in truly regal style in the finest of Pullman trains and stopping at the best hotels in each city.

Of course, the games may all be played in the West, for all anyone knows, but wherever they are fought out, the AMERICANS' twenty-five fans will "be there" down front in a specially reserved seat section.

So, turn now to that all-important vote-coupon on Page 2—it means much to some fellow fan struggling for supremacy in the contest—and vote it, vote early and often and push your favorite across the line a winner.

One of the "fight-to-the-finish" candidates is George B. Hawkes of Lynn. He says, "You can figure on me 'being there' when the votes are all counted. My friends shall see to that."

M. C. O. F. Bowlers to Meet.

There will be a meeting of the M. C. O. F. Bowling League of Greater Boston Friday evening, August 20, at 8:30 o'clock in Tremont Hall, No. 1125 Tremont street, Roxbury. Any club wishing to join the league should have representation.

BRAVES IN DOUBLE CLASH WITH REDS

CINCINNATI, July 29.—The Braves and the Reds will clash in a double attraction this afternoon, and to express the honest opinion of Manager Stallings, the Braves will win two.

The Braves showed here yesterday and their play was better than that of any team here this season. The boys are full of "pep" and fight and the last man in the ninth inning is declared officially out before the game is over.

Pat Ragan and "No-hit" Davis are carded to do the heavy work. Both have had a long rest and should put over a fine game for the "Big Chief."

It now appears that Manager Stallings is trying his hardest to organize a "big three" with Pat Ragan replacing Bill James, who is still on the hospital list. Every baseball enthusiast in the country knows only too well the doings of Stallings' big three last season, and if Ragan can fill in the gap made by the absence of James the Braves are sure to be at the top before moons.

The Braves have an open date on Sunday and Secretary Herman Nickerson has arranged a little side trip to Bellaire, O., where the Braves will play an exhibition game.

Eastern Yacht Club to Have a Big Time

The Eastern Yacht Club of Marblehead is making elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the New York club on Wednesday, August 11. At least fifty yachts are expected in connection with the annual cruise of the New Yorkers, which starts from New London, August 2, and a large proportion of the squadron will be steam vessels. The Eastern Yacht Clubs committee plans a dinner, band concert and vaudeville. In addition there will be an illumination of the anchored yachts and a subscription fund will take care of fireworks along the water front. The mid-summer dinner of the Eastern Yacht Club is set for next Saturday night, the entertainment to include "movies" and vaudeville.

THE BRAVES' RISE

The phenomenal rise of the Braves last season, a rise establishing history, is being repeated by Manager Stallings and his players.

Friday, July 16, the Braves were in eighth position, with a percentage of .442. Today, thirteen days later, the Braves are in third place, with .506, and they're still climbing.

The following table shows how the Braves are going up the ladder:

NEWS WRITTEN BY LEADING EXPERTS

N. E. GLOVE MEN SEEK BATTLE FOR TITLE

By JACK CONWAY.

THERE will probably be a number of merry lightweight battles staged in New England rings during the next several months. The fistic championship bout between Matty Baldwin and Gilbert Gallant created new interest in the local 132-135 pound punchers. The Baldwin-Gallant mixup was called a draw, which made it impossible for the Atlas A. A. to give either boy the new title belt. But if the New England lightweights have their way there will be a real champion before the 1915 boxing season closes at the Arena in December. There are plenty of rugged boxers seeking bouts and they are not very particular who is selected to oppose them.

Here is a list of boxers who believe they are entitled to a bout for the New England title belt:

Matty Baldwin, Charlestown.
Gilbert Gallant, Chelsea.
Eddie Murphy, South Boston.
Frankie Mack, Beachmont.
Freddy Yelle, Taunton.
Harry Burns, Lawrence.
George Alger, Cambridge.
Ray Wood, Fall River.
Walter Butler, Revere.

There are several other ambitious youngsters, but they will have to gain a little more experience before going after the stars in their class.

BALDWIN, Gallant and Murphy have had a monopoly of the local lightweight situation for some time. They have outclassed the rest of the 132-135 pound boxers. But during the past year a number of boxers have come to the front, and one of them may be able to batter his way to the head of his class. Of his newcomers Frankie Mack of Beachmont looks the best. He is a fine boxer, while he proved in his contests with "Young" Shugrue, Ted ("Kid") Lewis, Willie Beecher and Matty Baldwin that he has also developed into quite a fighter. Mack has been unfortunate in having been knocked down in a couple of his battles, but the Beachmont boy has usually got on his feet with the loss of much time and has fought back hard. He has also gained a wealth of experience campaigning around the country and his many friends believe he is entitled to a whirl with some of the star men in his class in these parts.

WE have already written at length of Young Burns of Lawrence. We consider him a promising young boxer and believe he has a fine ring future.

Freddy Yelle of Taunton is capable of making things interesting for the best boys of his weight in New England. He had a fair trial in the city, as in his contests here he was pitted against Charley Weinert and Charley Ledoux, considered by many as being the world's two greatest lightweights.

George Alger and Ray Wood are veterans of the game who by satisfaction and will defeat many an aspirant for ring honors before they retire from the ranks of the active. Then, there is Walter Butler, who has put up some good battles in local rings.

MIKE GEARON has started in preparation himself for his 12-round bout with "Soldier" Bartfield at the Atlas A. A. next Tuesday night. George Freeman, manager of the skilful South Boston boxer, is confident his protege will breeze in a winner. George, however, realizes that Mike will have to be in his best in order to dispose of Bartfield, who recently created quite a stir in the boxing world by outpointing Mike Gibbons in a 10-round skirmish in New York.

Corbett's Find Is Beaten by Gunboat

NEW YORK, July 29.—Tom Cowler of England, whom Jim Corbett brought to this country recently from Australia with the idea he was a regular, hope-to-die champion, received a bad setback by "Gunboat" Smith in a ten-round bout. Cowler was cut and smeared and it was the general impression he will never go Smith had a decided advantage in eight rounds. The best Cowler could do was to even the honors in the first and seventh sessions. Cowler weighed 205 pounds and Smith 182.

DOUBLES FEATURE BIG TENNIS CARD

There will be no tennis singles at Longwood today, but instead the Eastern doubles match will hold the centre of the stage.

Yesterday there were several good doubles contests, with the one between L. C. Wright and Wallace F. Johnson, the Boston-Philadelphia combination, and E. F. Larned and F. C. Inman furnishing chief interest. Wright and Johnson are a new combination and they loomed up very well in the doubles harness.

R. H. Hackett and T. R. Pell, another strong combination, have gone into the third round. Other favorite teams remaining in the doubles event are Craig Biddle and R. C. Johnson, a second Quaker-Hub team; Williams and Washburn, Niles and Gardner, and Cater and Bundy.

Maurice E. McLoughlin, a former National singles champion and present holder of the Longwood challenge cup, was out for practice yesterday with his California playmate, Ward Dawson. McLoughlin has not played on grass courts since he won Kinsey year ago, which in a way accounts for his apparent wildness yesterday. He will practice again today.

McLoughlin has won two legs on the Longwood bowl, and a win this year in the challenge round will give him permanent possession of the costly trophy.

Girls in Real Fight to Decide Ring Superiority

NEW ORLEANS, July 31.—Following a three-round battle between Miss McDonald of Mississippi and Miss Kline of Louisiana, students of the Tulane Seminary, originating out of an argument as to the physical qualifications of the girls of these two States, another mill was staged in the school gymnasium between Miss Stevens of Louisiana and Miss Stevens of Mississippi.

The affair which followed the news of the first ring battle caused the 1,400 young women of the seminary to take physical precautions that the result of the fight should not leak out, and it was impossible to learn who came off the winner.

The first bout arose when Miss Kline is said to have stated that she could lick any woman her weight in the South. Miss McDonald took it up and it was decided to test the matter in the gymnasium.

Mexico's Hospitality Declined by Johnson

When the time drew near for the Willard-Johnson fight in Juarez it was plain to be seen that Johnson could not go there and remain a free man. This country wanted him and the different factions in Mexico each saw a chance to get in the good graces of the United States government by turning him over to it.

But that was all avoided and Jess Willard tells how Havana came to be chosen in tomorrow's chapter of his autobiography in the AMERICAN.

It was hard work, though.

SIDELIGHTS on SPORTS By A·H·C·Mitchell

YOU will go a long way before you see another game as exciting, as well played and so nearly perfect in all departments as the game served up at Fenway Park yesterday.

The Red Sox cannot win all the time. There is no disgrace in losing a game like the 1 to 0 affair up at the park yesterday. The Tigers lost, so that helped a bit, because the Red Sox players figure the team managed by Jennings is more to be feared than the Windy City gang.

BUT the Braves came through with their punch, and, as a result of the beating they gave the Reds at Cincinnati, gained a full game on the Phillies, who are leading, half a game on the Braves, the Brooklyns, who were prevented by rain from playing. The great Alexander was defeated by Iowa, the Cardinal hurler, yesterday. The Braves are only three and one-half games behind the Brooklyns and five games behind the Phillies.

They have a clear title to third place today, because the teams they were tied with—Pittsburgh and Chicago—did not play yesterday.

INITIALS are in evidence in the Boston-Chicago box scores today. There were three Collinses Ray, Eddie and John—in the line-up and two Scotts—Everett and Jim.

VICE-PRESIDENT PAUL LANnin of the Red Sox saw the battle from the press stand. He is the son of Joseph J. Lannin, owner of the club.

SHORE caught two Chicago runners napping off first. "Buck" Weaver and Eddie Murphy.

At the start of the game it looked like the White Sox would do considerable batting to Shore. Eddie Murphy beat out a bunt at the start of the game, but after that all taps were handled effectively.

FELSCH has caught the fancy of the crowds by the easy and graceful manner in which he covers centre field for the White Sox. In the last two days he has made some surprisingly good catches. He covers acres of ground and seems a sure catch, no matter how he goes after a ball.

Felsch robbed Henriksen of a three-bagger in the eighth inning and doubtless saved the game for his side. It looked fully 1,000 to 1 that the ball would go safe and roll to the bleachers.

MIKE KAHOE, the old backstop who has just hitched up with the Braves as scout, is a very quiet man, but knows a ball player when he sees one. He picked up several good men for the Washington club.

Evidently Griffith let Milks go just when he needed him most. Griff will have to make some changes in that club of his before he can whip it into a serious pennant contender.

One trouble with Griff is he doesn't seem to have the patience to develop a likely looking recruit. Griff's specialty is swapping ball players. Many is the deal he has got the worst of, but he will swap at the slightest provocation.

THIS is Johnnie Evers' parting shot before he took the train with the Braves for the West Tuesday night:

"Boston will be in the lead, or at least within two games of it, before we finish the Western trip. Our club is right back where we started the fight a year ago. We have won a lot of close, louzy games lately and this is the true test of any outfit. We didn't win them all on luck, either. All our pitchers are going fine and in first-class shape. I think the worst part of our journey is ended."

WILEY REFUSES TO TAKE TROPHY

George Wiley was awarded the gold medal, emblematic of the motorpaced championship of America, last night at Revere, but refused to accept it because the race had not been over the regular course.

Wiley had a very comfortable lead, but rain stopped the race after 23 miles and 6 laps had been covered. Wiley stated he is more than anxious to win the medal, but wants to register his triumph in a fifty-mile race.

Grant, an amateur, suffered a broken collarbone in a fall in one of the early events. Leon Didier, who was injured three weeks ago, will ride an exhibition race Saturday night. The summary:

Half-mile amateur handicap (Class)—Won by P. Barry, Cambridge A. C.; second, Fred McKenzie, Revere; third, Joseph J. B. Mullen, Everett. Time—:58 4-5.

Third, John Tardif, East Boston (55 yds.); fourth, Joseph Tardif.

One and one-half mile professional handicap—Won by Louis Williams, Buffalo (30 yds.); second, Joseph Fogarty, South Boston (65 yds.); third, Joseph Tardif, East Boston (55 yds.); fourth, Joseph Tardif, Everett; fifth, Tom Connolly, Everett; sixth, Pat Logan, South Boston; seventh, Dennis Connolly, Everett; eighth, Dennis Connolly, Everett; ninth, Hugh McPartland, South Boston; tenth, Tom Connolly, Everett. Time—2:34 2-5.

Mile and one race—Amateur—Won by L. C. Bellamy, Everett; Tom Connolly, Everett, second; Willie Turcotte, Revere, third; John Barry, Cambridge, fourth. Time—2:34 2-5.

Five-mile professional handicap—Won by Louis Williams, Buffalo (30 yds.); second, Joseph Fogarty, South Boston (65 yds.); third, Joseph Tardif, East Boston (55 yds.); fourth, Joseph Tardif, Everett; fifth, Tom Connolly, Everett; sixth, Dennis Connolly, Everett; seventh, Hugh McPartland, South Boston; eighth, Tom Connolly, Everett; ninth, Pat Logan, South Boston; tenth, Dennis Connolly, Everett. CHURCH BELLS TOLL IN SORROW FOR WAR

Ministers of Greater Boston will hold a short service of prayer between 4:30 and 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, to be followed by the tolling of their church bells. The services will be expressive of sorrow over the war and sympathy for those who have borne for the last twelve months the burdens of distress and suffering.

"Twelve Months of War" will be depicted at a meeting of the ministers of Greater Boston, Monday, at 11 a. m., in Chipman Hall, Tremont Temple. Those who will take part in the meeting are the Rev. Dr. E. S. Shumaker of Boston; the Rev. H. A. Pike of East Boston, the Rev. A. H. Sargent of Rockland and the Rev. W. J. Rutledge of South Boston.

PRESIDENT AT TEA GIVEN BY DAUGHTER

CORNISH, N. H., July 29.—President Wilson took part in a social function for the first time since Mrs. Wilson died when, at a tea given by his daughter Margaret, he received members of the Cornish artist and author colony. The tea was given on the lawn of Harlakenden, the Summer home of the Cravens.

The invitation list was restricted to about eighty people, whom members of the colony usually have met since they began coming to Cornish 20 years ago. The President walked about the lawn mingling with the guests during the tea.

Among those present at the tea were Mr. and Mrs. Winston Churchill, Mr. and Mrs. Maxfield Parrish, Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacKaye.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were strong in the last hour, some at their high for the day. Railroads had improved and industrials, which are supplying war munitions ranged still higher. Markets opened strong, but irregularity had prevailed most of the time.

Among late New York gains were Amalgamated 2, Chino 1⅜, Utah 1¼, Anaconda 1⅛, American Smelting 1, Allis Chalmers 5, U. S. Steel 1⅝, Republic Iron 2⅝, Beet Sugar 1¼, American Loco 4½, Bethlehem 8½, Maxwell 2½, Studebaker 2⅜, U. S. Rubber 1⅝, Great Northern Ore 3⅜, Colorado Fuel 2⅜, Pressed Steel 1⅜, Reading ½, Southern Pacific ½, Union Pacific ½.

Money declined were: Missouri Pacific ⅜, it being close to the lowest record price of $1.50 a share; Baldwin ⅜, and Republic Iron & Steel preferred 1. Crucible Steel had sold to 83, up 17¾, but near the close suddenly reacted 10 points to 73. A St. Paul director said that at the meeting today the executive committee would vote on the dividend question to the full board without recommendation.

In Boston Tamarack advanced 2¾ Superior ½ and United Fruit 1. Butte & Superior was off ⅝ and American Zinc ⅛.

CRUCIBLE THE FEATURE.

Crucible was the feature of the New York market in the morning, selling up to 79½ during that period, a gain of 23. It crossed 80 at noon and was the most active stock, transactions in it totalling nearly 90,000 shares in two hours. Bethlehem ranked second with U. S. Steel, Westinghouse and American Locomotive following in the order named. Locomotive advanced nearly 8 on the week. It had been awarded a new war contract for $80,000,000 or more. U. S. Steel is said to be operating at 93 per cent. of capacity. The iron Age estimates that war materials contain from 20 to 25 per cent. of the current output of leading steel companies. The rumor that Bethlehem, Crucible and some other like corporations will combine still circulates, but over half of the total trading was in half a dozen war issues. It was one of the most active markets of the year. Foreign transactions totalled around $50,000 shares.

Among stocks to touch "new highs" for 1915 or any previous time were Allis Chalmers, Beet Sugar, U. S. Steel, American Car, Bethlehem, Crucible, Continental Can, Colorado Fuel, Republic Iron, Studebaker, Westinghouse and Great Northern Ore. Railroads and coppers were quiet. Western buying of rails is good over 1914, Weinsimian regarding the dividend outlook weakened St. Paul. While rails were irregular they were in good demand at slight recessions. It is the standard stocks that are being accumulated, especially Reading, which has "wars" for its field. The Bank of England rate was unchanged and unstable. Its proportion of reserve to liabilities is only 16.80 per cent.

TRADING DULL IN BOSTON.

Unlike New York the Boston market was somnolent. Coppers and rails reflected the dullness of the metal market. Spot copper and futures lagged 12c in London, while locally prices were unchanged, like spelter. Lead was off 10s. There was no better tone to metals in this country. Consumers expect lower prices and are disposed to withhold orders as long as possible. Tamarack shares sold to a new high for the present movement.

THOSE WHO LET WHISKEY ALONE LAST, SAYS WILLARD

By JESS WILLARD
Copyright, 1915, by A. Merritt, All Rights Reserved.

WHISKEY'S graveyard of prize fighters has many an American in it. Dutch Sam, the Giant, Chicken, Randall Jack Scroggins and those other English champions who went the pace, have been given plenty of company.

Some of the greatest battlers that the United States ever saw are now lying in drunkards' graves. At any rate they taught a lesson and set an example. The fighter of today knows that he's got to lead a clean, healthy life if he wants to win.

It's a lesson that has been learned in many another business, too. No railroad will hire a man who drinks. No saloonkeeper wants a bartender that drinks. Every great corporation in the country says to job hunters, "If you drink we don't want you."

The people are just getting wise to the fact that whiskey burns up the stomach, weakens the heart and makes a man old before his time. Employers know that a whiskey drinker can't think quick, can't see good and can't be depended upon in an emergency.

Any American boy who wants to know what made a mind slip in my ring will get to look at the list of men who have made fighting a business. It's often that they get away from whiskey lasted. The fighters that drank soon got to losing, and generally they broke and forgotten.

John C. Heenan, the Benicia Boy, was a great fighter. Sullivan whipped him, but Heenan was a beginner at the time, and a sick one. Sullivan broke up his training. A drunkard broke up his training. A man that he might have won had he not spoiled the muscles of his right hand in the first round.

At any rate, Morrisey quit the ring, and it was Heenan who was selected by the sports to go over to England to meet Tom Sayers for the championship of the world. The fight lasted two hours and six minutes, and Heenan had his man helpless when the crowd rushed the ring and stopped the fight.

It was Sayers' last appearance in the ring. He was an "iron man," but when whiskey got him he turned out to be putty. Rather than see the once great champion fighting for the loser's end of small purses, friends raised a fund for him on the promise that he would stop fighting and drinking.

It was too late. Whiskey had eaten him until he was a shell. He died a wreck in 1865, just five years after he fought his fearful battle with Heenan.

Tom King whipped Jem Mace for the championship, and in 1863 Heenan went over to England again to meet the new British champion. The men fought for a purse of $10,000, winner take all, and again the American was made the victim of a rotten deal.

In the eighteenth round, after he had beaten King to a pulp, the crown rushed the ring and stopped the fight. After a long delay the men were ordered to the scratch again. King had recovered and Heenan reeled like a drunken man. He could not hit a blow, and King won handily.

There isn't a question but that some sort of dope was put in his drinking water. The dirty trick was charged openly by many England sporting writers, and proved by the doctors who were called in.

Heenan had too much Irish blood in him not to be a "mixer." He liked company and he was never the man to refuse a drink. His magnificent constitution soon gave way, and the great giant became a physical wreck who died in the very prime of life.

John L. Sullivan might have learned a lesson from Heenan, but he was another one of those husky giants who are always trying to beat booze with them. He was only thirty-four years old when he fought Corbett, but whiskey had made him fat and slow.

It wasn't until long after his days as champion that John learned that the only way to beat whiskey is to leave it alone. He found himself broke and almost deserted by every friend, and so he decided to climb up on the water wagon.

Today he has the greatest temperance crank in the world. He has a right to be. Instead of filling a hole in whiskey's graveyard of prize fighters he is enjoying a fine old age on a farm out west.

From all that the oldtimers tell me, Jack Dempsey was one of the most remarkable fighters that ever pulled a glove. He had strength and speed, and he was clever. He was as much like Randall, the English phenomenon, that they nicknamed him the Nonpareil.

People made an idol of him, and from morning until night he was followed by a gang that was eager to buy drinks for him. He was a "good fellow" to everybody but himself. It wasn't long before the life began to tell on him.

Ahout the only fight that Dempsey ever lost until he met Fitzsimmons was a knockout at the hands of George LaBlanche, the Marine, who was a pivot blow that did the trick, and it could never have landed had the Nonpareil not grown slow and careless.

When he lost the championship to Fitzsimmons, it wasn't the old Jack Dempsey that got whipped. He he sure, it was an unequal contest, for Lanky Bob stood head and shoulders above Dempsey.

"Good Lord," groaned Dempsey as he looked at Fitzsimmons entering the ring. "You've matched me with a heavyweight on a middleweight's legs."

But at that the great middleweight was to no shape. The easy life had ampered his strength, killed his speed and weakened his lungs. He went thirteen rounds, but he was a beaten man from the start.

In his last years the once great fighter was supported by the featherweight chase when John L. Sullivan, Jack Dempsey and Jack McAuliffe were the idols of the crowds that had followed him in the days of his prosperity, only a few stayed by him.

I don't suppose there ever was, or ever will be, a greater fighter for his inches than little George Dixon. He was a champion in the featherweight class when John L. Sullivan, Jack Dempsey and Jack McAuliffe were the idols of the crowds that watched them all go.

He was strong as a bull, fast as a flash, game to the core, and as clever a boxer as the ring ever saw. But, like Dempsey, he let people make a fool of him, and did not know how to say "no" to the game that is always willing to buy drinks for a celebrity.

There is no telling how much money Dixon made during his long fighting career. It must have been high up in the hundreds of thousands, for he had a record of battles as long as your arm. But when the end came he died in poverty.

A fighter like McGovern was made to order for a man like Dixon, who had one of the most accurate lefts that ever stopped a rush. And they tell me the way he could whip his right across was a caution. But he Dixon that met Terrible Teddy had no strength left and was only a shell of the once great fighting machine.

Look back over the lists of fighters, and you'll find that the "easy life" is the kingpin of them all when it comes to knock-outs. Jim Wolcott was in a class by himself. After he whipped Joe Chonaki they called him the "Boston Killer."

But he was another of the boys who didn't think that the water wagon was fast enough. Some nights he got in a row, and came out of the row with some fingers gone. He never amounted to anything after that.

Kid Lavigne was the only man that ever gave the Barbadoes Black Bird trouble. He could do a beating. It was a fifteen-round battle and the awful blows that Lavigne put into the body kept Joe well up for repairs for many a month.

Lavigne had everything that a fighter could possibly want. No man of his weight could duck with or swallop, and while he looked awkward in the ring, he had a cleverness almost as dangerous as Jim Fitzsimmons.

But Lavigne thought that it wasn't necessary to keep in training all the time. He felt that he was so invincible that he could afford to take it easy between fights. And so a good fellow named Joe Erne came along and took the championship away from him.

Look up the fighters who are champions today. Take fighters like Packey McFarland, Johnny Kilbane, Freddie Welsh, Mike Gibbons, Willie Ritchie, Jim Coffee and myself.

(Tomorrow Willard will tell how he took up training quarters at El Paso.)

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE; OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

The Drunken Automobilist Must Be Driven Off Our Highways

THE drunken, the reckless, the law-breaking automobilist must be driven off our highways, in the interest of not only the pedestrian but of the thousands upon thousands of motorists who do not use intoxicating liquors.

The task will not be difficult if our law-officers are alert. The motorists who drink are an infinitesimal proportion of the great number of Massachusetts automobilists. The great majority of automobilists understand that the man who drives an automobile has no more right to indulge in intoxicants than has the driver of an express train.

The number of automobiles in the Commonwealth is increasing daily by hundreds, thanks to the swiftly decreasing prices of these useful and health and happiness-making adjuncts of modern life.

On account of this very increase the courts must at once PUT THE FEAR OF THE LAW into the hearts of the drunken automobilists. If every lower court judge in Massachusetts from this day on would send to jail EVERY MAN FOUND GUILTY of driving an automobile while drunk, if every district attorney and higher court judge would sternly and justly refuse to set these jail sentences aside, then the WORD WOULD GO FAR AND WIDE that the person who drives an automobile in Massachusetts MUST OBEY THE LAW OR GO TO JAIL.

The drunken automobilist would disappear from Massachusetts highways if the law were thus sternly and justly enforced for the safety of every person in the Commonwealth, especially those who own and drive automobiles carefully, sanely and for the enjoyment of themselves and their wives and children.

Unfortunately, as the facts and figures brought to light in last Sunday's AMERICAN showed, the law has not in the past been so enforced. Fewer than one-third of the drunken automobilists ordered to jail by lower court judges ever landed behind the bars. Their cases died a slow and stealthy death, or were put into a state of coma. MANY OF THE MEN SO CONVICTED ARE STILL DRIVING AUTOMOBILES. The Highway Commission should NEVER AGAIN give a license to a man who has been found guilty of driving a machine while drunk. This is necessary legislation if life is to be safe on our highways.

The Time to Act for Better Streets in Boston Is NOW

BOSTON'S streets go from bad to worse, and there is still lacking the action so urgently needed for immediate street improvements.

Mayor Curley has returned from his vacation trip, and announces that he will again put his $500,000 loan order for street reconstruction before the City Council. This is the measure which the Council refused to approve some time ago.

Practically nothing has been done toward that comprehensive plan of street work which Boston so greatly needs. Its serious street problem still faces the city. It is apparent to every citizen that SOMETHING MUST BE DONE, and at once.

The condition of Boston streets is, to say the least, disgraceful. This condition is unprecedented in the history of Boston and unparalleled among the great cities of America. Existing street conditions are not only a discredit, but are materially HARMFUL TO THE CITY.

Surely the City Council does not intend to allow present street conditions to continue. The members must certainly have some plan in mind whereby Boston can secure immediate street betterments.

The AMERICAN makes an earnest appeal to the City Council to devise ways and means for IMMEDIATELY relieving present street conditions. As scores of Boston's leading business men have pointed out, the time to act is NOW.

Letters from American Readers

WOULD PAY HIS SHARE

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—Every person who thinks is forced to the conclusion that our navy, at the present time, is not only in a bad condition, but is far smaller than it should be. As there is apparently no inclination on the part of Congress to appropriate money to increase the number of battleships, would it not be a good idea for the people themselves to pay for them?

I am an American (not hyphenated) of French Canadian descent, and although I am in very moderate circumstances financially, with a family to support, I would be glad of the opportunity to pay one dollar a month for twelve months, towards the building of twelve new battleships; and I am sure there are a great many more in this country who would be willing to do as much—or more.

What do you and your readers think? Yours very truly,

F. J. R.

Thirty Thousand Miles of Defenseless Coasts

By J. W. Muller

Author of "The Invasion of America."

THE deciding factor in the problem of defending the continental territory of the United States is that there are more than 30,000 miles to defend, all of it coastline.

No other nation has a similar defensive problem. The conditions make it impossible for either a navy alone or an army alone to furnish complete protection. Therefore the principle which has been accepted and never altered is that there must be three lines of defence—a fleet, a system of harbor defences and a mobile army.

Unfortunately the harbor defences and the army have come to be regarded as one, both by the public and Congress. This grave fallacy has led the nation to fall into the mistaken belief that harbor defence meant defence of the entire coast.

In point of adequate preparedness and efficiency the present value of the three lines of defence is (1) harbor defences; (2) fleet; (3) mobile army.

This is a fatally incorrect proportion. The correct relative value, if every line of defence is made properly efficient, will be (1) fleet; (2) mobile army; (3) harbor defences.

The harbor defenses lead in efficiency today largely because they are matters of permanent engineering. The Corps of Engineers of the United States army, famous for its achievements, built them so that they are the admiration of foreign experts. Being permanent, they have not suffered like the ever-changing army and navy from the whimsical irregularity of Congress legislation.

It is regretted by military experts that the name "coast defenses" has been applied so generally to these works. They do not defend the coast. They protect only the very limited harbors whose entrances their guns command. They prevent a hostile naval force from establishing any naval base in a secure haven. They prevent a hostile army from landing in a harbor and force it to undertake the hazardous operation of landing on the open coast.

It has been asked often by laymen why the entire coast line should not be defended by such works, thus putting a stop forever to all danger of invasion.

The reply is simple. The utmost effective range of the 14-inch rifled cannon, the largest seacoast gun, is 18,000 yards, or a trifle more than 10 miles. Therefore, to protect the whole coast, fortifications would have to be built a little less than 20 miles apart if there is to be no gap uncovered by gunfire. For the 30,000 miles of coast this would mean 1,500 fortifications.

At the valuation placed on Forts Hamilton and Wadsworth, in New York harbor, such a chain of defenses would cost ten billions of dollars to build and arm, and would demand the continuous services of one-half million men, even at the present inadequate rate of garrisoning existing defenses.

Flashes on the Screen

By S. E. Kiser

ONE THING LEFT TO LEARN

WE drag old idols from the shelves,
The outworn dogmas we discard;
But daily still we find ourselves
Turned back from gateways that are barred.

OLD prejudices we disown,
Old superstitions disappear;
But, left in darkness all alone,
We think of goblins lurking near.

WE leave the old myths and we turn
From creeds to which our father's clung,
But no man has contrived to learn
How wealth may keep him always young.

* * *

Don't judge a man by the way his wife speaks to him in company. Hardly any woman means all she says when others who are not members of the family are listening.

* * *

Man is about the only thing in which a woman doesn't wish to have it understood that she has found a bargain.

Every Man a Peter Pan

Unlike Women, They Never Grow Up, and That Is One Reason Why the Sexes Understand Each Other So Little

By Dorothy Dix

ONE of the reasons that the two sexes understand and sympathize with each other so little is because women are always so much older than men, no matter what relative age they really are.

Women are born grown up. They are mature even in their cradles, but the majority of men are still boys at heart even when they are gray and gouty. Not without reason did Barrie make Peter Pan of the masculine persuasion. No female creature is ever a Peter Pan at heart, however much she may affect the role in her clothes. She may rig herself up in infantile white muslin and blue ribbons and wear curls, and affect the baby stare, but underneath her pose of youth, her soul has wrinkles and crow's feet on it.

Women recognize the fact that men keep their physical youth much longer than they do, and that a man of forty still looks boyish, while a woman of that age is frankly middle-aged, and Heaven alone knows the work and worry, and dieting, and massaging, and general martyrdom that wives go through in order to keep in their husbands' age class. This is why custom has decreed that the husband shall be older than the wife. Experience has shown that even when he has the lead of her by ten or twenty years she will catch up with him before the tin wedding anniversary rolls around.

Men Remain Boys to the End, Both in Spirits and Body

But if men keep young in body longer than women do, still more do they keep young in spirit. They are boys to the end of the chapter, and this is what their wives never comprehend.

When a woman is grown up she is all grown up. She is sophisticated, and of the world, worldly. The things she enjoys, the books she reads, the plays she sees are strictly for grown-ups, not for children.

On the other hand, no matter how clever and intellectual or how big and powerful the man gets to be, he still keeps somewhere in his soul the spirit of a boy. His idea of having a perfectly gorgeous time is to get away from people and go fishing with a stick and a fishing rod, and a tin can of worms for bait, as he did when he was ten years old.

It is this boy spirit that makes men collectors, and that raises wifely wrath because husbands—until they are taught better by their spouses—clutter up the house and spend perfectly good money on butterflies, or postage stamps, or old prints, or something else that the mature ladies to whom they are married consider childish and foolish.

Most of Marriages That Go to Smash Founder on Age Rock

Most of the marriages that go to smash founder on the rock of age. The wife lacks the fine vision to see that in the shadow of her big, strong, competent husband there lurks the little shy boy to be played with, and coddled, and petted, and mothered.

And it is this little boy who, finding no welcome nor recognition at home, so often runs away to some other woman in his desperate hunt for a play fellow. You can see ample proof of this in the letters that are pathetic, as well as ludicrous, that form the main exhibit in almost every divorce suit, and in which the writers, often men who have amassed millions by their own shrewdness, or men who have achieved fame in some profession, sign themselves "Your Little Boy Blue," or "Your Billy Boy," or some other imbecility that belongs by right to the age of calf love instead of the love of maturity.

There is food for thought for wives in these revelations of the divorce court, for they show that a man never gets so old that he doesn't want to be petted and jollied and made much of. Even when he has only one scant hair to brush across his bald spot he desires just as ardently to have some woman curl it around her finger as he did when he had ambrosial locks that were a temptation to the hands of every feminine beholder.

Likewise he desires to talk nonsense and to listen to nonsense, the gay nonsense of youth, and this is another side of man's eternal boyishness that his wife can never grasp.

The women who make successes of matrimony are the ones who have the inspired sight to see the boy in the man, and whose love has a large element of the maternal in it.

It is the wise woman who treats the boy in her husband as she treats her own three-year-old—who kisses him when he's good, and scolds him when he's bad, and shows him off before company, but makes him feel that the safe harbor of the world is in the hollow of her shoulder where his head can rest.

Kismet

By Jane McLean

GOD made her fair to some, her golden hair
Piled high above a brow unfurrowed, white;
Her eyes blue lambent pools of color, where
The fires of life leap with a steady light.
And some who feel her shadow do but see
The tragic clasping of her pale white hands,
The weaving of her web of destiny
That pulls the universe at her demands.
And whether she is friend or foe to man,
Yielding him joy or sorrow, love or hate,
He spends a lifetime since the world began
Striving to read the misty eyes of Fate.
